Demand Immediate Debate on Wage-Hour Bill

BACKERS HOLD VOTE MANDATE TO COMMITTEE

House Members Want Rules Waived So Measure Won't Meet Further Delay.

EYE ADJOURNMENT DATE

Approval In Lower Chamber Predicted But Proponents Fear Senate Action.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — House proponents of wage-hour legislation, jubilant over the success of their petition to take the bill from the rules committee, demanded today that the house be allowed to consider the measure without further delay.

They asserted the unprecedented demonstration when 218 members, a majority of the house, signed the petition in little more than two hours after it was filed yesterday should be accepted as a mandate for the rules committee to give the bill preferential status.

Earliest Date May 23.

Under house rules, May 23 is the earliest date the bill could be considered under the petition.

There was considerable doubt, however, even among the bill's supporters, that the rules committee would yield.

The committee voted 8 to 6 last week to pigeon-hole the bill, resulting in its supporters resorting to the petition method of bringing it to the floor.

Some legislators said the eight committeemen who refused to give the bill right-of-way to the floor would not be inclined to change their votes now for fear of being regarded as having weakened under pressure.

Behind the sentiment for hastening consideration of the bill was the possibility of prolonged senate debate against the measure.

Most house members are anxious to get home and at work on political fence-mending for the forthcoming election campaigns. They fear southern senators will use every possible parliamentary stratagem to delay the wage-hour measure if it is approved by the house

Hopkins Declares Relief Cost Might Hit $3,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress learned from Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, today the government's relief program might cost $3,000,000,000 in the next fiscal year instead of $1,000,000,000 as originally estimated by the budget bureau.

Testifying before a house appropriations subcommittee on President Roosevelt's request for $1,250,000,000 to finance work-relief from July 1 to Feb. 1, 1939, Hopkins disclosed he was preparing for a peak load of 3,100,000 relief clients next winter.

Hopkins said the $1,250,000,000 would take care of an average of about 2,600,000 persons until next October and permit an increase up to 3,100,000 during the winter months.

There are approximately 2,600,000 persons on relief rolls now.

SCHOOL PLANS HINGE ON PWA

Success Of Building Program To Depend On Approval And Size Of Federal Grant.

While Mansfield school officials were optimistic today about their chances of obtaining a federal grant for their proposed $1,000,000 school building program, they agreed that the success of the building plan will depend almost entirely on the size of the allocation.

Following a special meeting of the board of education yesterday, Supt. W. L. Miller went to Columbus to confer with state department of education officials on the possibility of a grant. He learned, however, that requests for federal aid over the state are awaiting the approval by congress of a new public works program and that the date of approval, if it is given, is indefnite.

Recognizing the need for prompt action if Mansfield is to share in federal funds, the board yesterday took a six-months' option on 10 acres of land at Cline avenue and Wood street for a prospective building site for a new junior high school building.

The board will meet Wednesday night with Mansfield architects to discuss preliminary plans for the program so that something tangible will be ready to submit to PWA officials. Federal grants for schools usually amount to about 45 per cent of the estimated building cost.

The program, which would be financed by a federal allocation and a bond issue, calls for two new junior high buildings, a shop building at Senior high school and improvements to most of the city's elementary buildings.

JAPS LOSING TO 3,000 CHINESE

Guerrilla Troops Fight For Control of Supply Base.

SHANGHI —(AP)— Three thousand Chinese guerrilla troops, fighting recklessly in the streets of Nantungchow, threatened today to annihilate the Japanese garrison of that supply base on the north bank of the Yangtze river, 60 miles north of Shanghai.

Japanese reinforcements were rushed from Shanghai in a desperate effort to save the decimated garrison and retain possession of the important base town.

The loss of Nantungchow would cut supply and communication lines serving a Japanese army of 10,000 men operating in North Kiangsu Province.

Duffy Wants Jury To Investigate Complaints About Commission.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy said today that he would suggest to the special grand jury investigating the reported solicitation of campaign funds from civil service employes that it inquire into complaints that the state civil service commission failed to take proper action.

RELIEF COSTS DOWN $4,000, WEATHER AIDS

Warm Temperatures Eliminate Fuel Needs In April; Total Bill For Month $18,800.

INCLUDES CITY, TOWNSHIP

1,489 Families and 190 Single Persons Received Help, Director Reports.

Relief costs in Mansfield and Madison township dropped more than $4,000 last month when 1,489 families and 190 single persons were provided with food, clothing and fuel, the monthly report of Relief Director Earl A. Nist showed today.

The amount spent for relief was $18,884, or $4,116 less than the March expenditures which soared to a new high of $23,000.

The decrease in the relief load resulted in savings in fuel bills which are near a minimum at this time of the year, Nist said.

Covers Total Cost.

April expenditures include the total expense for Mansfield and Madison township under the new administrative set-up inaugurated March 15, when the county turned the relief burden over to the subdivisions.

Les than one-tenth of the total bill was for administration, according to Nist, who listed salaries of case workers and other administrative costs at $1,879, more than $200 less than was paid the previous month.

Approximately two-thirds of the total bill $11,856 provided assistance for 1,091 cases in Mansfield while the township received $5,148 for its 398 cases.

City, Township Rolls Cut.

This was $2,500 less than was spent by the city during March while the Madison township costs dropped approximately $1,600. During March 1,139 families received aid in the city, while the township's load dropped from 425 cases in March to 398 during April.

A decrease in applications for relief was shown in both Mansfield and Madison township with 199 persons applying during April as compared with 225 in March. Of this number 118 became active cases.

Due to the lack of WPA projects in the county, certification

WOLFE TO RUN

Former State Senator Enters Congressional Race.

Philip Wolfe, Mansfield, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congressman from the 17th Ohio district.

While Wolfe has been considering filing for the office, he withheld his announcement, he said, pending a decision on whether to run for congress or secretary of state. He had been mentioned in Ohio Republican circles as the "logical candidate" for the secretary of state post.

Wolfe and Col. Oliver H. Dockery of Newark are the only Republicans definitely in the race. Congressman William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, who has served nine terms in congress, is unopposed to date on the Democratic ticket.

Wolfe served one term in the state legislature from Richland county and two terms as state senator from the 27th-29th district.

'Mystery Man' Takes Down His Hair-- Never Lived in Tree, But Loves Nature

Hugh J. Fokner's Life Has Been Simple; He's Just An 'Individualist.'

By HELEN ALLYN

THIS is the story of Mansfield's "mystery man" — the chap with the shoulder-length hair and the long red beard.

Many myths have grown up around him, some of them true in part, some entirely fantastic. He has been a part of the Mansfield scene for 17 years and is fully aware of the stories people tell about him. He never has bothered to confirm or deny the rumors simply because what other people think about him concerns him not at all.

Yesterday, I talked to the "mystery man" for nearly two hours. We explored the brick-gabled home on North Mulberry street, overlooking the railroad tracks that generally is presumed to be Shane's Castle, glorified by Louis Bromfield in several of his novels.

He told me children have called him "Tarzan" and believe he was born in a jungle. He's heard that grown-ups say he's lived in a tree, graduated from any one of 10 colleges, was disappointed in love and believes himself to be a prophet.

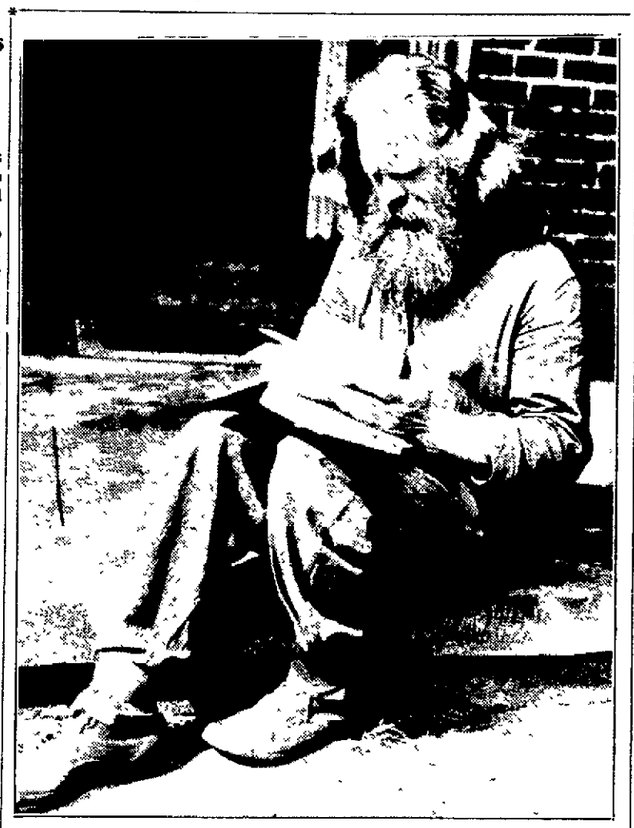
In reality, his story as he related it to me, is a very simple one. His name is not "Olaf" as he is called behind his back, but Hugh J. Fokner.

He is 54 years old, a graduate of Oberlin academy in 1911 and alumnus of two years in the physical education department of Oberlin college.

He worked his way through school, selling hosiery and aluminum wear, often stopping at Mansfield with his wares. When time came to settle down, he chose this city because he had acquaintances here.



MYSTERY MAN

Seen by many on the streets, but seldom photographed, Hugh J. Fokner, Mansfield's "man of mystery," is shown here reading Louis Bromfield's "The Farm" in which he is a character.

The popular story that he let his whiskers grow because he was disappointed in love, makes him laugh. He admits he was in love once, but being a spurned suitor has nothing to do with his beard.

"I've only had the beard four years," he said, "I grew it in the first place because I thought it would help me in special selling. Now I believe men all will come back to wearing beards some day. Fashions go in a cycle."

When Fokner was in Oberlin, the other students thought him a

Workers Ready to 'Get In There and Pitch' With Opening of Campaign Set for Monday Evening.

With the team lined up, Community Fund workers today were set to "get in there and pitch" when the umpire calls "play ball" at the dinner opening the annual campaign Monday night at the First Methodist church.

The goal is $53,950 and how to get the much-needed money will be the theme of the dinner meeting.

Coaches in this benefit game are Arthur S. Hughes, chairman of the campaign, and Harold Burns, chairman of the speakers' committee.

He'll 'Pep Up' Teams.

Guest-speaker, called in from an out-of-town Community Fund to give a little extra pep to the game, is the Rev. Frank Baker, director of the Goodwill Industries in Cleveland.

There'll be a band, too, playing a return engagement by public demand after appearing in Monday's parade. The players? They're the kindergarten children from Friendly House, noted for their rhythm.

Edith Fletcher Jamison and the Singers club who have been asked to broadcast over a Mutual program over radio station WHK, will be musical artists at the dinner Monday night. William Black and Charles Conklin, "The Pep Boys," will furnish the comedy.

More than 200 workers are expected at the banquet to get their

FEAR POISONING

Nazis Send Hitler's Own Chef To Italy On Word Of Plot.

LONDON—(INS)—Warned that a plot was afoot to poison Adolf Hitler in Rome, German Police Chief Heinrich Himmler sent the fuehrer's own chef to Italy to cook for him, according to a report in the "Londoner's Diary" of the Evening Standard today.

The poisoning, said the story, was planned for the state dinner given by King Victor Emanuel Wednesday.

Hitler's chef brought his own supply of food, dishes, and cutlery to Rome, the Standard said—and presumably Hitler had his usual vegetarian diet served to him while the other guests were dining on the regular palace menu.

ADMITS THREAT

Social Worker Held In Letter Sent Governor Hurley.

BOSTON —(AP)— A 41-year-old worker who, Police Capt. John F. Stokes said, admitted he wrote a letter threatening Gov. Charles F. Hurley's daughter, was taken to psychopathic hospital today for observation.

ACCUSED BANDIT TAKEN TO JAIL

Youth Injured In Attempting To Escape State Patrol, Held Without Bond.

Frank Willard, 24-year-old bandit suspect who attempted to shoot his way to freedom Thursday night when cornered by state highway patrolman in Loudonville following a $12 tavern hold-up in Wooster, today was transferred from General hospital to the city jail where he is being held without bail. A charge of highway robbery was filed against him in Wooster yesterday. While International News Service dispatches reported that Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the state highway patrol said charges of shooting with intent to kill and auto larceny charges would be placed against Willard.

In Ashland, County Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling said that should the Wayne county jury fail to indict the youth on charges filed there, that he also would file charges of shooting with intent to kill.

Willard was captured by state highway patrolmen in a midnight gun battle in Loudonville in which the splinter of glass entered his eye. He was taken to the General hospital where he was under police guard until removed to jail.

State patrolmen said that they were undecided as to when Willard would be taken to Wooster for arraignment.

ADMITS THREAT

Welfare Worker Says Kidnap Warning Was Only a Joke.

BOSTON —(UP)— Edmund E Farrell, 41, welfare worker, was sent to Boston Psychopathic hospital early today after he allegedly confessed that —as "only a joke" —he wrote a note signed "the Black Hornet" threatening to kidnap one of Gov. Charles F. Hurley's three daughters.

Police said that Farrell was apprehended after experts identified his handwriting from a postal card received at the state house late yesterday.

Mayor's Son Forgets About $1,240,000 WPA Check.

SEATTLE—(UP)—John F. Dore, jr., son of Seattle's late mayor, discovered today the letter he absent-mindedly carried around in his coat for a week contained a check from Uncle Sam for $2,241,961.

The check represented a PWA grant for a city power project.

Parents Waver in Decision to Leave Baby Girl Die Rather Than Be Blind

Infant Would Have 50-50 Chance to Survive If Doctors Operate.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Herman and Estella Colan debated today whether to stand by a decision to let their five-weeks-old daughter die instead of submitting her to an operation which medical men said would doom the child to a lifetime of blindness.

The baby, Helaine Judith Colan, is a victim of glioma of the retina of both eyes, a malignant cancerous growth for which no cure is known. Physicians said it attacks the nerves of the eyes and will spread to the brain and cause death if an operation is not performed. They believed the child would have only a fifty-fifty chance to survive even if they are permitted to operate.

Helaine's maternal grandfather, Dr. Morris L. Harshmann, prominent obstetrician who first suspected presence of the disease, said the parents had decided "to let nature take its course and leave the baby's fate to the mercy of God."

The parents, however, were reported today to be wavering in their choice.

Dr. Harshmann had announced that their decision was final.

"I talked with my son-in-law by telephone," he said, "He told me that he and my daughter had decided not to submit the child to an operation.

"As a physician I believe they are right, but as a father I am inclined to the other side."

He said the couple may change their minds in view of a slim hope offered by Dr. Cassius B. Rogers, brain specialist at the Garfield Park community hospital, where the baby is confined.

Dr. Rogers said there was "a chance" that supervoltage X-ray treatments might save not only the baby's life but also the sight of the right eye.

Two Minutes Of Racing-- Derby's Over

Don't Bet Too Much on It, But It Looks Like Fighting Fox.

By HENRY McLEMORE
(UP Staff Correspondent)

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky.—Today they sing another song for the Old Kentucky Home.

A bugle's summons rides the wind, bright silks war against the sun. Dust and noise for a little over two minutes and then you will know the 1938 derby winner.

Taking it from those who say they know, the winner will be Fighting Fox with nine other colts chasing the big bay beauty from the Belair Stud down to the pay-off line. There'll be $50,000 and a blanket of roses waiting there for the first one to reach it.

Post time is 5.30 (EST). A crowd of 85,000 will see the race.

The most unsentimental experts of them all—the bookmakers—held Fighting Fox, the full brother to Gallant Fox, who won the derby in 1930, at the short odds of 2 to 1. When the field of 10, the smallest derby field in 16 years goes to the post, Fighting Fox may have been hammered down to even money.

The caliber of the derby field is a proven fact. Here are the qualifications of some of Fighting Fox's rivals:

Bull Lea: second in the betting at 5 to 2. Winner of his last two races and in each of them he set a new track record.

Menow: third in the betting at 6 to 1. Juvenile champion of 1937, the fastest horse from the starting gate, is almost certain to cut out the early pace.

Thie Chief: magnificently trained by Earl Sande. Proved his fitness by winning the derby trial of a mile Tuesday in record time of 1.35 4-5.

Lawrin: tremendous early foot. Will have the benefit of smart handling with Jockey Eddie Arcaro aboard.

Dauber: runner of a smashing second to Stagehand in the Santa Anita derby. Best stretch-runner in the field.

Can't Wait: second to Fighting Fox in the Wood Memorial, when he closed like a whirlwind to pick up six length's in the last half mile.

Co-Sport, Elooto, Mountain Ridge: the three outsiders in the field. Not believed to be of derby caliber.

CALLS CABINET

Burton Makes New Effort To Solve Cleveland Crisis.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Mayor Harold H. Burton called his cabinet into special session again today in an effort to work out a solution to the city's relief crisis.

While relief clients continued their sit-downs in several of the city's relief stations, welfare workers attempted to stretch out until Monday the remaining funds of the $50,000 voted by city council Wednesday. Police reported the sitdowns were orderly.

Demand for emergency food orders has risen to such an extent that welfare officials issued orders that preference be given only to the most needy cases—those involving children, aged, or illness.

A special citizens' committee of nine named by the mayor to attempt to work out a solution has called a meeting for Monday.

LOSES APPEAL

Ashlander Turned Down In Plan to Get State Job Back.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— The court of appeals today refused the appeal of Charles H Spery of Ashland for restoration of his mechanic job with the highway department's division No. 3. He was dismissed in 1935 without written notice but the court held that such notice is unnecessary where dismissal results from economy measures.

JOAN SIGNS UP

Movie Star Given $1,500,000 For Five Years By Metro.

WORLD WAITS SPEECHES BY HITLER, DUCE

Expect 'Peaceful Intentions' To Be Keynote Of Addresses Over Radio Network.

BOTH AGREE ON MESSAGE

Compare Texts Of Talks Which Bring Fuehrer's Visit To Rome To A Climax.

(By United Press)

ROME—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's visit to Premier Benito Mussolini, his partner in the "Rome-Berlin axis," reaches its climax tonight when both leaders make formal speeches —agreed on in advance—reviewing their negotiations and advising Europe of their policies.

It was understood that Hitler and Mussolini would confer informally today, completing their negotiations, and that at that time they would compare texts of the speeches they had drafted for delivery and for broadcasting over an international radio hook-up, at a formal banquet at the Venice palace tonight.

Won't Be Startling.

Well informed Italian sources said that no startling developments should be expected and that the keynote of both speeches might be summarized as:

"Peaceful intentions and a friendly solution of problems affecting Italy aind Germany."

It was reported that one friendly solution involved the settlement of the Czechoslovakian German minority problem by use of the good offices of Great Britain, and that Hitler had expressed approval of the Italian friendship with Britain and proposed friendship treaty with France.

The most important feature of the entire visit of the Nazi fuehrer to the Fascist duce was regarded as the negative one that they did not conclude a military alliance.

Backs Colony Demand.

They kept their own counsel on positive agreements. But the report in usually well informed diplomatic quarters was that Mussolini agreed:

1. To support Germany's demand for colonies by using his influence at London in an effort to obtain a settlement of this problem and, eventually, a binding four-power peace pact, Mussolini's ideal for years, embracing Italy, Great Brit-

Ickes Short On Grammar, But You Get His Meaning

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the remark—"What the hell do I care what office he doesn't use?" Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes today carried on his personal feud with Undersecretary of Interior Charles West, former representative of the 17th Ohio congressional district, which includes Richland county.

Secretary Ickes recently moved his disliked undersecretary from a de luxe four-room suite to a small room in a back corridor in the Interior Department building so he could move in a favorite assistant secretary, Ebert K. Burlew.

Secretary Ickes justified his move by saying that the "little cabinet officer" divides his time between the White House and the Capitol and seldom worked for the interior department.

COURT JESTER

Supreme Court Justices Get Chuckle as Attorney Pulls Boner.

DES MOINES, Iowa—(AP)—Attorney Rex Fowler, near the climax of his argument in an appeal case before the Iowa supreme court, said before he realized it:

"Listen, you fellows . . . I beg your pardon, I mean your honors."

The five justices on the bench chuckled along with everyone else in the courtroom.

SIX SPLIT POOL

Half Dozen Guess Time of Ice Break-Up, Sign of Spring.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—(AP)—Six winners who will split more than $100,000 guessed to the minute the time ice would break up in the Tanana river, annual harbinger of spring.

The lucky six, participants in a guessing pool, held tickets setting the break-up time at 12:14 a. m. (EST). At that minute the surging ice at Nenana tripped a timing device.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

"How do you like to go up in a swing,
Up in the air so blue?
Oh, I do think it's the pleasantest thing
Ever a child can do!"

THE swing was bequeathed us by those who lived here before. (We are on a larger farm for the summer.) It is made of wire cables, with a neat board seat solidly attached by hooks. The upper end is screwed deep into a strong limb of the maple tree.

Watching the children at play in this swing, I myself, get the thrill of it. Whoever put up that swing was an understanding sort . . . he must have known how little feet would kick off from the bare spot in the grass, how shining child faces would be lifted to th green branches in an effort to "touch top." He must have understood the grand feel of flying that comes on the upward swing, the delectable sinking at the pit of the stomach when the swinger starts down and back.

Up they go! Two little boys "churning butter." Small legs, brown and stiff with the effort of working up. Small arms hard and tense, pulling back. Brown blue eyes ashine with fun. Brown eyes wide with daring—blue eyes round with surprise. Up they go...and down again! Heads are touching the tree branches now. The arc of the swing is almost a semi-circle. What could be nearer flying?

Up they go! Cheeks are flushed and rosy. Down they come! Breath is coming hard, hair streams in the wind. They pause, resting against each other. Slowly "the old cat dies."

A swing is so simple and so satisfying a joy of childhood. A person too old to enjoy the act of swinging, can still, as did our friend, the former tenant, put up a dandy good swing for somebody's children. Springtime is also swingtime.

College Lads List Qualities For Girls

By VIRGINIA LEE

A group of New York college students—seniors—recently specified what their ideal girl is like. Here are their specifications:

The Ideal Girl must be around five feet four inches tall; weight, 114 pounds; 20 years old; light hair, hazel eyes, fair complexion; pretty rather than beautiful; unsophisticated but a good sport; able to cook; fond of children; preferably, but not absolutely, a college graduate; understanding; capable dancer and liked by both sexes.

She must have a "paradoxical nature, expensive tastes but willing to buy clothes at moderate prices rather than costly figures; to have the same religion as the boy friend; to be willing to marry on a small salary and even to be willing to go to work after marriage if need be to support the home."

She must be a good listener, able to hold an intelligent conversation, and have a background comparable to that of the boy friend; also her tastes on books, plays and recreations must fit those of the man of her choice, and ability to be an asset socially, domestically and spiritually are other qualities the students would appreciate.

The average college man who demands all this of his ideal girl friend is 22 years old, five feet nine inches tall, has brown hair. Many of these lads reported that they had already found their dream girls.

Isn't it funny, the boys being so serious about their ideal girls? Wish I could check up on them ten years hence—visit each boy and see what type of wife he married; then check back on these requirements. And I bet the funniest thing would be that each man would swear he HAD married his ideal girl.

WORRIED has a queer problem. She is a girl with a Past. She started going out with a young man and grew to love him, so was true to him and thought this past forgotten. Then the young man grew cold and began to have dates with other girls. Worried tried to hold him, but they drifted apart.

Having lost the man she loved, Worried "went to the dogs," she says. Then the man came back. Now he has bought her an engagement ring, takes her to spend week-ends with his people, swears he loves and intends to marry her—but is always throwing up her past at the girl; says he cannot trust her and is ashamed of her. What should she do, is her query.

Well, it seems that you won't be happy with a man who can't trust you and keeps harping on things you have done in the past. You'll develop such an inferiority complex that you won't be good for much, I imagine. I think, for your own future happiness, you should break your engagement and start a new life. And for goodness sake, my dear girl, don't "go to the dogs" any more. That sort of thing never pays. There is no reason why you cannot live down your past and become a useful and happy woman, even if you can't marry this good looking man who says he loves you, but can't accept you as you are, past and all. Be strong and courageous, and good luck to you.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, May 8.

Sunday's horoscope holds testimony of very unusual adventures or experiences, with possible change, travel or explorations of a scientific or educational nature. Disputes, loss, litigation and concern about papers and documents may afflict both the private and business lives.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which very sudden and surprising things make their appearance These may bring travel, removal, new environs and meeting of strangers.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, ingenious, original and independent, and will have a romantic career. However, it may be subject to litigation, strife and dissagreements brought about by carelessness with writings or documents. Its gay and witty nature may add to its social prestige

For Monday, May 9.

Monday's astrological forecast is a particularly intriguing one, with several factors of a secret, curious and undercover character developing to lend conspicuous color to the day's activities. These seem to combine to work miracles in employment or in the good graces of superiors or those in places of power and position

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very signal advancement in their positions, possibly brought about by a subtle or peculiar influence or intrigue There should be surprising signs of preferment, promotion, honors or favors from superiors or those in high places but be alert to the hidden enmity and attacks of underlings or inferiors Be tactful with these.

A child born on this day may be peculiarly gifted, ambitious and aspirational, with idealistic, altruistic and democratic leanings that may advance it to honored position in realms of human service and advancement. However, it may encounter the mistrust and enmity of those it seeks to aid.

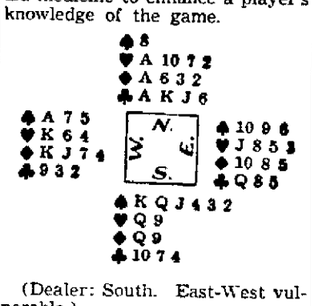
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO HANDS IN ONE

Duplicate bridge discloses the possibilities of a deal in ways that rubber bridge cannot. At one table a bidding problem arises, at another a playing problem. Perhaps four or five interesting points can be developed in the post-mortems among players from different tables after the game is over. That is one of the main reasons why duplicate is considered such splendid medicine to enhance a player's knowledge of the game.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

At one duplicate table South made an original "weakness" bid of 3-Spades on this deal, to shut out possibly strong vulnerable opponents. His partner, with "the works," ordinarily lets such bids alone, but this time just had to do his bit. He called 3-No Trumps, but after South's 4-Spades he had sense enough not to reach out for a slam which could not be made.

At another table, they got to the same spot by means of 1-Club by North, 1-Spade by South, 2-Diamonds by North, 2-Spades by South, 3-Hearts by North, 3-Spades by South, 3-No Trumps by North and 4-Spades by South.

At a third the bidding went about like that, except that North bid his suits from the top down instead of the bottom up and finally stopped at 3-No Trumps. East led the heart 3, dummy played the 9 and West made a beautiful duck, holding up his K to kill the Q as a dummy entry. Where is the man who could make the contract after that play?

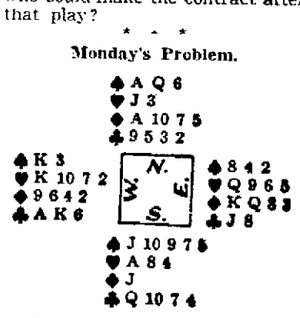
Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the best bidding of this deal?

Study Hair Before Your Permanent

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

NOW IS THE TIME for your spring permanent. If you are going in for curly locks this year there are a few points that this department thought might be of interest before you take this important step.

Of course the idea of a permanent wave is to make straight hair behave like naturally wavy hair. It makes hair a lot easier to arrange, and is practically a necessity if you are going in for curly bobs or upturned hairdos. Most people have about two permanents a year, one in the spring and another in the fall, but lots have more. It's a question of how fast your hair grows. If you are one of the girls who can almost see your hair grow you'll need more waves than one whose hair grows slowly.

Have Test Curls.

We hope you've been a very good girl and taken time off to give your hair a few weeks' conditioning. Healthy hair responds so much better to the waving. If you have been ill and your hair is sickly and dry, or very fine and soft, then you will have more difficulty in getting a good wave. And don't be bashful with your operator. Break down and confess if you've been using over-strong tonics, dandruff removers, bleaches, tints or dyes. She will be able, with your help, to tell whether your hair is in condition for a permanent and will know what to do if you have white hair or fine hair that has to be handled carefully.

Ask for one or two test curls before you have your whole head waved. And get a reliable operator in a clean, reputable shop. This is not the time to go in for economy, because you are going to live with that head of hair for the next six months, come what may.

Your hairdresser will part your hair all over your head, making about thirty-six curls of uniform size. There are two ways of winding the curls, spiral or croquignole. The spiral winding starts at the roots of the hair and works out. The croquinole starts at the ends and winds in. Spiral can be varied to give waves of different widths, and are best if you yearn for soft waves around your face Croquignole is better for short hair, because it gives your end curls a nice springy quality.

It is purely a question of taste as to what type of permanent wave you want. The three types are electrically generated heat, preheated pads and regulated heat supplied by the sachets themselves.

Don't think that because you have paid your money and gotten your wave that your hair will just arrange itself when you run a comb through it. You've got to work with it and train the waves and curls in place, just as you would if you had naturally curly hair. And don't forget to give your hair and scalp hot oil treatments and shampoos for several weeks afterward, to counteract any dryness.

It will be fun to be able to take off your hat and toss your hair in the breezes without fear of it going lank on you just at your moment of abandon.

Using Honey.

Honey is at its best uncooked, with the natural flavor and color unchanged. Among the most satisfactory uses are the following:

As a Spread—With bread, plain or toasted, griddle cakes, waffles, biscuits, and other hot breads.

To Sweeten Fruits, Beverages and Cereals—If necessary, warm the honey slightly to make it pour more easily.

In Sandwich Fillings—The following are a few of the many delicious sandwich fillings made with honey:

Honey butter, made with equal parts of honey and butter creamed together, with or without nuts or with grated orange peel.

Honey with chopped dried fruits, with or without nuts.

Honey with either cream or cottage cheese.

Honey and chopped or grated orange peel.

Honey and peanut or almond butter.

In Sauces—In hard sauce, substitute honey for one-half the sugar.

Serve honey as a sauce for ice cream, with or without nuts.

Honey and orange sauce for ice cream. Use one cup of honey, one and one-fourth cups of finely chopped or grated fresh orange peel, one-half cup orange juice and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Combine the ingredients and let the mixture stand over hot water, without cooking, for about 30 minutes, to blend the flavors.

In Frozen Desserts — Use for sweetening—From leaflet of U. S. department of agriculture.

Never make jelly from fruits that are picked after a rainy day. The fruit is watery and the pectin becomes sticky. Worse than this, the jelly won't "jell" until it has been cooked for hours.

Marriage Meddlers

THOUGH KATIE'S voice was excited, it was muted far below her usual high-pitched tones. I guessed the reason immediately, and heroically controlled the mirth in my voice as I put a question to her.

"Does Mother Graham know Mrs. Bickett and the children are coming home?"

Katie gave the effect of a swallowing a giggle.

"Not on your golden wedding day she don't," she replied. "She having her morning nap now shoost before loonch, und ven dot telegram boy coom, I tell heem I keel heem eef he make vun leetle noise. Und you always tell me open all telegrams addressed to you, und dees vun vas, so I beat eet ofer to your leetle study vere branch telephone ees, und I call central so soft nobuddy kin hear, und I talking to you now. Plees, Missis Graham you start right away, coom by your Katie. You know vot dot old vomans do to me eef she know Meesis Bicket und keeds coming today. She vant all house cleaned before dey get here, und I feex eet all so nice day before yesterday, clean eferyting., all eet need ees doosting, und I vant start baking tings. You know how hoongry dose keeds, Roderick und Junior, going to be, und Meester Bill und Meester Hank, dey will have dere ribs steecking to dere backbones by time dey get here, und me—"

"Wait just a second, Katie, while I think wnat I want you to do."

"Sure ting!" she answered cheerfully—and trustfully. Katie, in many things, depends upon me for guidance as if she were a small child and I her mother.

"I will come out late this afternoon," I said. "And I do not think you need to tell Mother Graham anything about the telegram until I come home."

"Oh-h—goody, goody!" Katie caroled softly. "You sooch good vomans, Missis Graham. But—" her voice breathed sudden alarm. "Suppose she find oudt some vay. She awful smart, dot old vomans!"

"Tell her that I have given you orders never to disturb her when she is asleep, if you can possibly get along without doing so."

"Dot no lie," Katie interposed. "You tell me dot one tousand times already yet."

"Also tell her," I went on hurriedly, "that I have told you to open all telegrams addressed to me, if she should be asleep when they come, and that you thought you ought to telephone me the news at once. Then say I directed you to keep quiet about the telegram, because I wanted the coming of the children to be a surprise to her. Do you understand all this?"

"You bet your Sunday boots," Katie responded enthusiastically. "Oh! my! vot smart lady you are, Meesis Graham! You tink of eferyting! But—how I goin' manage about cookin'. She tink tings eef I start baking."

Gives Instructions.

"Wait!" I commanded, and did an intensive bit of planning, with enforced disregard of telephone tolls.

"It's nearly the end of the week," I said. "Have Jim bring in one large pumpkin or two small ones, and prepare them ready for making pies. Put the pumpkin in the ice box to keep until you're ready."

"Dot goot ting to do," she said. "Dot old vomans she lofe poonkin pies. She no keeck about my doing dot."

"She also loves those little cakes you make," I said. "Make a small batch to leave in the pantry and then a bigger batch which you can hide in your own quarters until the children arrive. Those will keep you busy until I get home, and then we can plan the rest."

Katie heaved a gusty sigh of relief.

"Oh! you make me feel so goot—so safe," she said. "But—you sure you kin come dees afternoon?"

"Very sure," I returned, but when I had hung up the telephone, I experienced a qualm of doubt. What would be Mary's reaction to my going? She was so set upon spending every available minute upon my training of her in her role that I feared she would be disappointed if I absented myself from the hotel for even a day.

"Doctor Rhythm" at Ohio.

An ace singer who can clown and an ace clown who can sing pool their talents in the musical comedy, "Doctor Rhythm," opening at the Ohio today. The feature also will be offered as a midnight matinee at 11:30 today. The two are Bing Crosgy and Beatrice Lillie, English stage star. The film is a musical version of the O. Henry story, "The Badge of Policeman O'Roon," which relates the rollicking experiences encountered by a fashionable New York physician who masquerades as a policeman for a day to help a friend out of trouble. He gets more than he expects when his first assignment is to be personal bodyguard to a madcap society woman, Miss Lillie, who is also the favorite patroness of the police force. Supporting the two are Mary Carlisle, as Miss Lillie's niece, Fred Keating, Andy Devine, Sterling Holloway and Louis Armstrong's orchestra.

Musical Comedy.

Irene Dunne and Douglas Fairbanks, jr., top the cast of "Joy of Living," which graces the screen of the Madison theater today. A popular musical comedy star who, thanks to the demands of her selfish family, is constantly in debt; and a forthright sort of playboy are the principal characters. Certan that her parents and her sister love her in spite of their expensive habits, the star quarrels with the young man when he urges her to let the relatives shift for themselves, and learn how to have a good time before it is too late. How Fairbanks opens her eyes forms an exciting plot. Alice Brady, Guy Kibbee and Eric Blore are in the cast.

"Dangerous to Know."

Akrim Tamiroff, who has portrayed film characters of wide variety since his Hollywood debut a few years ago, has a new role in "Dangerous To Know," opening at the Majestic theater Sunday. The story tells how a boss makes his first mistake when he tries to trade his blackjack for a high hat. In his mad pursuit of a society girl Tamiroff commits the greatest folly of his career and thrusts aside the oriental adviser who has been responsible for his success. And in the climax he is arrested for a murder he didn't commit. Others in the cast are Gail Patrick and Anna May Wong. The second feature on the program will be "The Main Event," with Robert Paige, Jacqueline Wells and Thurston Hall. "West of Rainbow's End," with Tim McCoy and "Female Fugitive," play through today.

"Rosalie."

Nelson Eddy and Eleanor Powell in "Rosalie," reappear on a Mansfield screen Sunday at the Ritz theater. The picture follows the adventure of a West Point cadet who falls in love with a princess of Romanaz, a mythical kingdom. When the girl suddenly returns to her home to marry the king, the cadet borrows his uncle's plane and he and his buddy make a non-stop flight to the country to keep a promise. When he finds that she is to marry the king he departs for home to face the officials. And then the girl unexpectedly shows up at West Point. Ray Bolger, Virginia Grey, Ilona Massey and Billy Gilbert support the two. "Partners of the Plain," and "Thank You Mr Moto," are the current features.

Texas Poetess American Mother of 1938

Mrs. Grace Noll Crowell, of Dallas, Tex., never had a great deal of time to spare for club and social activities around town. Yet she had won honors at home.

Now she has been signled out from women of the nation as the American Mother of 1938. The character, personality and success of her children; her own moral strength, courage, patience, kindness and understanding brought her that title, bestowed by the Mother's day committee of the Golden Rule Foundation.

Her children are three sons, Dean H., 34 a bank clerk; Reid, 26, an artist, and Norton B., 24, an instructor at Southern Methodist University.

While she was rearing her family, Mrs. Crowell also was busy as a poet. She has published nearly 2,000 poems in eight volumes. At first she chose nature subjects, then she turned to the theme of the home, the family and the simple things of life. Texas has made her its poet laureate; more than a hundred of her poems have appeared in London publications.

Her first poem, her husband, Norman H. Crowell, recalls, was written on the flyleaf of a book of etiquette he had studied six months before they were married.

When Mrs. Crowell was nominated for the Golden Rule honor, J. Paul Maynard, editor of the "Christian Herald," seconding the nomination, wrote:

"She expresses the spirit of motherhood in her breadth of human sympathy, and in the fact that literally thousands of people write to her every year because she draws from them a desire to confide, as a child to its mother."

Household Hints

Menu Hint.

Cold Roast Lamb Mint Sauce
Creamed Leftover Baked Potatoes
Asparagus
Lettuce and Watercress
Two-Minute Loaf Cake Tea

The loaf cake is made quickly and is excellent eaten hot as cake or pudding, and garnished with fresh orange or grapefruit sections.

Today's Recipes.

Creamed Leftover Baked Potatoes.—Peel potatoes and cut off brown sections. Make rich and well-seasoned cream sauce with one tablespoon butter, one-half tablespoon flour, mixed smooth; add slowly one cup milk, season with pepper and salt to taste, add potatoes which have been diced. Cook up and serve piping hot, or bake for five minutes before serving.

Two-Minute Loaf Cake.—One-half cup melted butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, three-fourths cup orange juice, two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, rind of two oranges, three tablespoons sugar. Add hot butter to one cup sugar. Add well-beaten eggs and juice squeezed from oranges. Add sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased pan. Grate orange rind, mix with three tablespoons sugar, sprinkle on cake. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes. Serve as pudding with hot orange sauce or garnish with fresh fruit.

Shane, chairman of the correct use of the flag committee, reported that codes had been given to the Mansfield schools, some of the township schools, the parochial school and 200 Girl Scouts.

The committees in charge of participation in the Northwest Territory celebration reported and Mrs. S. D. Hoover reported that three boxes of clothing had been sent to the mountain school at Crossmore, N. C. In was decided by the organization to send a Mansfield boy to the Buckeye Boys' camp sponsored by the American Legion at Columbus during June.

Hostesses were Mrs. Gosser and Mrs. G. W. Hypes. Mrs. Ackerman was appointed state chairman of national defense.

The next meeting will be Flag day, June 14, at the home of Mrs. Frank B. Ford, Attica, with Mrs. Clarence Lindeman, Mrs. William Fendrick, and Mrs. B. L. Sites as associate hostesses.

Mrs. Colby Guest Speaker On Club Program Friday

Mrs. F. F. Forshee presented Mrs. A. M. Colby as guest speaker today on the sealed program given before members of the Cottage Garden club at the home of Mrs. F. T. Wendt. Assisting Mrs. Wendt was Mrs. E. A. Larson. The table, which was decorated with spring flowers, was presided over by Mrs. B. F. Hagelbarger and Mrs. J. B. Conard.

"Flower Forms and Their Meanings" was the title of the paper Mrs. Colby offered. She told of methods of pollenization and how plants and flowers derive their forms. Mrs. H. D. Smith reported on the Garden club of Ohio meeting which was held in Cleveland, April 27, and Mrs. Sherman Wentz, president, was in charge.

A plant exchange followed. The next regular meeting of the club will be May 20 at the home of Mrs. T. H. Patton, Arlington avenue. Mrs. W. H. Goodenough will be associate hostess.

Supreme Officers Attend Covered-Dish Dinner

The supreme officers of Cleveland attended the meeting of the Daughters of Scotland at North Lake park pavilion yesterday. The affair was a covered-dish dinner and the table was decorated with a centerpiece of mixed flowers and yellow candles. Corsages of violets were given to each guest.

During the business meeting Miss Vivian Aplin, president, was chosen by the group as delegate for the convention to be held in Columbus in June.

Movies Shown at Garden Club Meeting Friday

There were 17 members present yesterday at the meeting of the Town and Country Garden club at the home of Mrs. Dwight Weir, 102 Sherman avenue. The session was a dessert meeting last evening. During the short business meeting a discussion on junior garden club work was held.

The program consisted of the showing of moving pictures on Alaska and Mexico. The pictures showed many different kinds of gardens and the types of flowers grown in the two countries. Mrs. D. Dalton Deeds presided at the tea table. The next meeting will be a joint meeting with the other garden clubs of Mansfield at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, May 27.

BULL LEA MAY GET PLAY AS DERBY FAVORITE BY POST TIME TODAY

By DAVIS J. WALSH

LOUISVILLE—(INS)—In a setting that had something of the grandeur of a great cavalcade and the shallow ostentation of a penny-a-prep arcade, seeming to combine the most raucous features of each, the annual running of the historic Kentucky Derby was to be consummated late today at Churchill Downs with 60,000 reveling in the most amazing show the American scene affords. It has no precedent. It knows no counterpart. It's simply Baghdad on a bender.

The climax was to come shortly after five o'clock. One and one-quarter miles by the tape. A little more than two minutes by the watch. And a thousand flutters by the heart.

With once-favored Stagehand still tossing fitfully on his bed of pain in the barns, ten colts, the best now known to the American turf, were named overnight to make the race that was the first to confirm the greatness of old Rosebud, Exterminator, Zev, Gallant Fox, Twenty Grand, Cavalcade and Omaha.

The old Fox, winner eight years ago, now has a younger brother arrogantly asking to follow in the footplaces of the old master and, fitting enough, Fighting Fox, of the Woodward stable, was the favorite today.

But there was a decided swing overnight toward Bull Lea, of the Warren Wright barn, so much so, in fact, that it seemed possible the Bull might be getting the big play by post time. He's been quite a horse since his third birthday and all week long has figured conspicuously in all calculations, by those who know and those who don't.

The horse was bred in or just outside Kansas City; so his victory would be a defeat for the wideopen spaces, which certainly is about time. I like the Fox in the race, but then I've always been a narrow-gage space man myself. I've even got a bed in one of them on the sixteenth floor right now.

Whether it's to be the Fox or the Bull or one of the remaining eight there is $47,050 waiting in the strong-box here for the winner. Second money is $6,000, so a nose-finish will be a terrible thing for the owner of the losing nostril.

May Threaten Derby Record.

THE drawing for post positions and the condition of the track, which currently is harder than a tough expression, should produce time that will approach and perhaps even touch Twenty Grand's derby record of 2:01 4-5. The field of ten, smallest since the Morvich year in 1922 will also help. The drawing for post positions ought to do the rest. On the pole, for instance, is the very hasty Lawin. Outside at No. 10 is the equally swift Menow, and, when they give the word to a pair like that, they should "bite" across the front of the field with the effect of a clamp. Before Menow does any "biting," however, he'll have to break in front of the No. 9 horse which happens to be the chief, which ran a 1:35.4 mile here on Tuesday in the derby trial, equalling the track record.

SHILOH LIONS OPEN HOME SEASON SUNDAY

SHILOH — The Shiloh Lions baseball team will open its season at home at 2:30 p. m. against the Shelby Settlement. "Dub" Hamman is manager of the Shiloh club. Teams wishing games with the Shiloh team are requested to contact F. W. Patterson.

50 Years Of U. S. Golf

By GARDNER SOULE

A GNARLED tree still standing in Yonkers, N. Y., marked the first "19th hole" in U. S. history. In the crotch of the tree, near the first tee of the St. Andrew's apple orchard course, the first U. S. golfers left their coats. From branches they hung lunch baskets and wicker demijohns of thirst-quenching fluids.

The Fox Is Pick

Belair's Stud's Odds Drop To 2 To 1 As Derby Crowd Packs Louisville.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Memories of one of America's greatest race horses lingered over Churchill Downs as 10 hand picked three-year-olds prepared to test speed and stamina in the 64th running of the $50,000 Kentucky Derby late this afternoon.

Fighting Fox, flashy bay from the Belair stud of William Woodward, New York banker, was the favorite at gradually receding odds to match the 1930 performance of the great Gallant Fox—the elder son of Sir Gallahad 3rd-Marguerite—before an expected crowd of 60,000.

May Go at 8 to 5.

As thousands of fans tasted the hospitality of this Blue Grass capital, the odds on the Fox dropped to 2 to 1 with evidence he would go postward at quotations as short as 8 to 5. J. J. Carroll, St. Louis future commissioner, quoted the Belair ace at 3-2. In the money in each of his five starts last year, the Fox has not bowed his head in two races this season. Neither has he been put to a severe test.

RACE ON AIR AT 5:15

The running of the Kentucky Derby in Louisville today will be described at approximately 5:15 p. m. over WGAR, Cleveland, and other Columbia stations by Ted Husing and Bob Trout.

Only Bull Lea, a product of the Blue Grass from Warren Wright's Calumet farm, kept pace with the eastern threat in the pre-race figuring as it narrowed down to a two-horse affair in the opinion of the experts. His odds were cut to 5 to 2 and if the hardboots continue to rally to their own, he may go as low as 2 to 1.

Some saw in Bull Lea's breeding a weakness for the derby route of a mile and a quarter. His daddy, Bull Dog, sired mostly sprinters, but his mother, Rose Leaves, comes from a long line of distance runners. Two performances at Keeneland gave evidence he leans more to the maternal side of his breeding.

In the two races he created two track records and whipped Hal Price Headley's Menow in both events.

Menow, despite the two adverse decisions, figures to be the third choice at 6 to 1.

Of the others, Myron Selznick's Can't Wait, the smallest horse in the smallest overnight field since 1922, is given any kind of a chance to win the first of America's classics comprising the "triple crown." Although second to the Fox in the Wood Memorial, he was rated no better than 15 to 1.

A victory by either Mrs. William O'Toole's Elooto, Bert Friend's Co-Sport or Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Mountain Ridge would furnish the race with one of its biggest surprises since Donerail won in 1913 and paid 91 to 1.

Smiles on Downs.

Meanwhile, the weather man continued to smile on the Downs. Showers were predicted for late today but were expected to hold off until after the big race, scheduled to start at approximately 4:30 p. m. (CST).

In event of rain, however, at least Mountain Ridge and Co-Sport will be scratched. All of the others are mudders, especially Dauber. Odds against the cold from Delaware will be much shorter if the going is heavy.

Prepare For League Play

Baseball will take over the spotlight next week at the Friendly House when three clubs swing into action for the first time this year with practice sessions at Columbia field. The teams will open their regular season in June when the City Recreation program gets under way.

The settlement will enter the Junior, Intermediate and Senior clubs into the Recreation leagues. Each club will have a special night on which to practice. The Juniors play on Mondays, the Intermediates on Wednesdays and the Seniors on Thursdays. All practice sessions will start at 6 p. m.

Mike Wentz of the Friendly House issued a call today for all boys wishing tryouts with the clubs to report at the settlement. The teams will practice once a week.

Linta Guns for New Salem Mark Tonight

Mansfield Pole Vaulter to Attempt to Better Decker's Record of 12 Feet, 7½ Inches.

JOHN LINTA, Mansfield high pole vaulting star, will attempt to hang up his third new record of the season tonight when Coach Harry Mehock sends a small squad of Red Streaks to the nocturnal Salem Relays.

The Mansfield luminary wrote his first record in the books in a dual meet with Columbus North when he scaled the crossbar at 12 feet, 9 inches to establish a new Stadium field record.

Sets Relays Mark.

Linta marked up his second record-breaking performance in the Mansfield Relays two weeks ago when he was credited with a vault of 12 feet, 8½ inches in his successful defense of the championship he shared with Bill Decker of Elyria the previous year.

Linta finished second to Decker in the Salem Relays last spring when the Elyrian produced a new mark of 12-7½. It is this mark the Mansfielder will attempt to better Saturday.

Whether Linta will be able to better this height depends entirely to what extent he will be pushed in the dual meet with Sandusky here this afternoon.

If Linta is not forced to spend too much energy winning his specialty against Sandusky he may upset the Salem record.

After the Salem affair, Linta will concentrate on the district and state records, and neither are out of the reach of the Mehock protege as he has bettered both marks in A. A. U. competition.

High Records.

The district record set by the Whittaker brothers of Sandusky, now out of school, is well over 12 feet, but some inches below the state standard of 13 feet, 3½ inches hung up by Don Whittaker.

Linta bettered the state height in an A. A. U. meet last summer, but finished only third in the strong field of nationally known competitors.

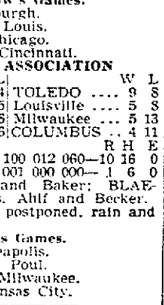
RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor

THE colorful, horsey crowd is expected to leave at least $1,500,000 in Louisville today for their mint julips, food and lodging, and another $1,500,000 will be laid on the betting windows (and probably most of it will be left there, too) . . . And while on the subject on the Derby, we might say that we wouldn't be surprised if the big romp around the the oval finishes like this, Fighting Fox, Bull Lea, The Chief and Dauber. That's our guess, and you can't sue us if we're wrong. So there!



Gabby Street

Coach "Frantic Francis" Schmidt is just beginning to find out that a young man's fancy turns to love in the good ol' springtime. Some of his Ohio State stars have been ducking grid sessions . . . Ival Goodman has only to hit 15 more runs to beat Harry Heilman's all-time Cincinnati record of 19.

Reports that "Jumping Joe" Williams has enrolled at Marshall have been denied . . . And back to the Derby: Stagehand's withdrawal cost the winter book bettors something like $1,000,000, and the bookies get to keep it all . . . Answer to a popular question: Man O' War never won the Derby . . . because he was never entered.

So Phil Wrigley thinks the deal that brought Dizzy Dean to the Cubs is still a good gamble. But what else could he say? . . . See where Gabby Street has picked the Indians to win the gonfalon. But don't get excited, Gabby also predicted that his Browns would finish in the first division.

Golf's Not Tough; Or Is It?

GOLF'S not such a tough game? At Toledo, Morris C. Comerford playing his first round of golf, barrowed a driver at the 141-yard 14th and slammed himself an ace. But wait a minute . . . his score for the other 17 holes was 180 . . . Talk that players resented Joe Di Maggio's holdout tactics is all the bunk. You see, if Joe had won his battle, it would have been a lot easier for the other players to get a hike next year.

Merchants Follow Schedule With Rex Billiards Sunday At League Park.

STRENGTHENED by the addition of two new players, Russ Remy's Mansfield Merchants will attempt to register their first triumph in two games Sunday when they tangle with the Rex Billiards at League park.

The Merchants bowed to the Sandusky Amburns in their opener, but are expected to present a stronger front Sunday with the addition of Infielders Bob Hammett and Gerald Weaver.

Remy will station Weaver at second and Hammett at third, with Boliantz and Backensto rounding out the infield. Remy, Shanks and Pittenger will patrol the outer garden.

Pete Metz will appear in the box, with Richard behind the plate.

Hi-Speeds Seek Second Win at Carey.

THE Mansfield Hi-Speeds, who opened their season in an auspicious fashion last Sunday, will attempt to register their second victory Sunday against the Cary Eagles at Carey.

Petey Beer, who hurled a six-hit affair in the inaugural, will go the mound again Sunday.

Cliff Another 'Meal Ticket'

Melton Scores Fifth Win Of Season Over Bucs.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Bill Terry, gruff manager of the New York Giants, today appeared to have found another "meal ticket".

Since Terry succeeded the late John McGraw as pilot of the Giants, baseball writers and fans, both of which groups are frequently at odds with him, have scoffed at "Memphis Bill's" managerial genius and said: "where would he be without Carl Hubbell, his 'meal ticket'."

Melton Helps, Too.

Season in and season out, Hubbell has carried the brunt of the Giants pitching burden, but today it was lanky Cliff Melton who was pacing the hurlers of the National league champions.

Melton scored his fifth straight victory, more than any other major league hurler has gained, yesterday as the Giants took a 11 to 7 decision from the sliding Pittsburgh Pirates.

Melton had to have relief in the ninth inning from Dick Coffman when the Pirates put on a four run rally in the ninth.

Johnny McCarthy, youthful first baseman, continued to set the offensive pace for the Giants by cracking out his fifth home run of the season with two runners on base.

The Cincinnati Reds climbed into first division in the National league race by downing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10 to 3.

In the other two National league games the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Boston Bees, 13-9, and Enos Slaughter's triple in the ninth enabled the Cardinals to win from the Phillies, 4-3.

Tie Yankees.

Washington won a 13-inning game from the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, and moved into a tie with the Yanks for second place. Relief Pitcher Pete Appleton's single won the game.

The Boston Red Sox hammered their former teammate, Buck Newsom, for 10 hits and beat the St. Louis Browns, 7-3.

Ken Keltner Hits Another Out of Park

His Fifth Homer Telling Blow In Tribe's Win.

PHILADELPHIA — (UP) — Ken Keltner, stocky 21-year-old third baseman of the Cleveland Indians, today was well on the way toward being recognized as the outstanding American league rookie of the 1938 season.

Keltner went into a tie for first place in the league home run race here yesterday when he smashed out his fifth circuit drive of the season. The homer came in the seventh inning with one man on base and was a telling blow in the 4 to 1 victory the Indians scored over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Scores on Doubles.

Cleveland scored once in the second inning on doubles by Bruce Campbell and John Kroner and then made certain of victory by pushing across three runs in the seventh.

The Indians pounded George Caster, Nelson Potter and Lynn Nelson for 13 hits, but still failed to garner safeties when men were in vital scoring positions. The Tribe had 12 runners stranded. The day before in its losing battle with Washington Cleveland had 16 runners left on base.

Johnny Allen was in the box for Cleveland and effectively scattered nine hits as he scored his third triumph of the season.

Allen shut out the Athletics for six innings and Philadelphia's lone tally came in the sixth when Campbell muffed a fly ball.

Umpire Bill McGowan, who ejected Allen from a game at St. Louis last week, worked behind the plate yesterday. The fiery Allen never protested a decision, however.

Tightens Grip.

The victory enabled the Indians to tighten their grip on first place.

The concluding game of the series was scheduled for today with Willis Hudlin and Lee Ross as the opposing hurlers.

Legion Team Opens Season In Central Ohio League at Columbus Today.

SPORTING an untried lineup including a number of youngsters, the American Legion club of Mansfield, managed by Dewey Durant, will crack open its end of the semi-pro Central Ohio league schedule at 2:30 p. m. Sunday against the Federal Glass aggregation in Columbus.

Durant will delay his definite pitching choice until game time Sunday, but indicated that Lefty Deeds would probably get the nod. Les Fishbaugh, who formerly hurled for the Columbus Red Birds, is expected to oppose the McVey Post entry.

Silsby To Catch.

Don Silsby, a former Ohio State catcher, will undoubtedly don the mask and pad, Durant said.

The Legion infield will line up with Charley Baker, old Bucyrus favorite, at first; Red Harre, who formerly played with the Delano club, at second; Ed Willard, Carroll university football star, at third, and Dick Donnan at short.

Willard and Donnan were members of the Mohican Chevrolet club, which won the city sandlot championship last season.

Durant has not announced his starting outfield. Tommy Moxley, Orv Kibler, Freddy Lewis and Beal are available for garden duty. Lewis is another graduate of the Chevrolet team.

In addition to Deeds, the pitchers Durant will have on hand Sunday are Howard Patterson, Al Boyer and Aid Geiger.

Weber to Join Club.

Durant announced today that Nick Weber, former Mansfield high school star, who is attending Tennessee university, will join the Legion club in June. Weber is catching on the varsity at the southern school.

Bob Seeds Hits Four In Row

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—Bob Seeds burly outfielder of the Newark Bears of the International League, today was the talk of the baseball world. Seeds hit four home runs in successive times at bat as Newark downed Buffalo 22 to 9.

In addition to his circuit drives Seeds secured two singles to give him a perfect day at bat and personally accounted for 12 of the runs his team made. Seeds formerly was a member of four American League clubs, the Cleveland Indians, the New York Yankees, the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox.

CHAPTER XXXII

Something was happening. He was facing the quarry and Mr. Brewster had his back to it. Behind that back something was happening. A hand had come over the lip of the quarry, a very scratched, dirty hand. It felt for a hold and found it. The other hand appeared. Dr. Hammond's head appeared. There was blood running down over his forehead. His hair stood bolt upright. He showed all his teeth in a vicious grin.

Algy said, "I still don't see why you hate me so much, you know. You've simply imagined all that about my despising you. Good lord, man, one doesn't go about despising people!"

Dr. Hammond got a knee over the edge, flung himself forward, and plucked Mr. Brewster's ankles from under him. A bullet went singing past Algy's cheek as he ran in. There were two of them now to grapple with the twisting eel, and the two of them had their work cut out.

"The pistol, man—get the pistol!" snapped Jim Hammond, who had been kicked in the face.

Algy got a whirling arm and a wrenching wrist. The pistol went off again. Cyril Brewster's teeth met in his thumb and with another twist he was free.

The police car came round the corner, bumping over the ruts and bumping off them across the rough ground between the track and the Quarry. Inspector Boyce and his men jumped out. They saw three men all running in a very surprise order, because Mr. Brewster, the Home Secretary's Secretary, had the lead. He also had a pistol in his hand. Mr. Somers, whom they had come to arrest, was running him close, and hard upon his heels Dr. Hammond, collarless and dishevelled, with a hand to his jaw.

Mr. Brewster gained a little and, coming round the turn, looked across a quarter circle and saw the second car, the Inspector, and the two policemen. They saw him look down at the pistol in his hand, and they saw him turn and aim at Algy Somers. They heard the crack of the shot.

Perhaps Mr. Brewster had been boasting when he claimed to be a dead shot, perhaps his wrenched wrist betrayed him. He missed handsomely and, with Algy closing in, turned the pistol on himself and did not miss. From the lip of the quarry he stepped back and went crashing down to the rock and the brambles below.

"If I hadn't the jaw-bone of an ox, he'd have broken it," said Dr. Hammond wrathfully. "Boyce, your blithering. Mr. Somers hasn't murdered anybody. He's just escaped being murdered by the skin of his teeth, and so have I. Your Mr. Zero, the man who murdered Sir Francis Colesborough and Sturrock and did his damnedest to shoot Mr. Somers and myself, is at the bottom of the quary, and you'd better send your men down to make sure he's dead. I'd send two of them if I were you, because if he isn't dead he'll be about as safe as a wounded tiger. I'm not going down and that I tell you flat. They can bring him up here to me. I've had some and I'm not going down again." He clutched rather suddenly at Algy and lowered himself on to the grass.

"You're not hurt, sir?" Boyce's tone was full of concern.

"Shook up," said Dr. Hammond rather faintly. He shut his eyes and leaned forward with his head on his knees.

"Perhaps you'll tell us what's been happening, Mr. Somers," said the Inspector. "We went after you to Cole Lester, and when we found you weren't there, well, it was natural for us to draw certain conclusions."

"I suppose it was," said Algy. "But I was only walking over to Railing Place. I wanted to see Mr. Lushington."

"That's what William told us. We had just got to the turn where the track comes in, when we heard the shooting and got a move on. Lucky we arrived when we did."

* * *

"Brewster knew the game was up as soon as he saw you. As long as it was only the Doctor and me, he'd have gone on fighting. He meant it to look as if I'd shot Dr. Hammond and then committed suicide," Algy told the police.

Jim Hammond lifted his head for a moment and nodded.

"He'd got it all planned," he said. "I'm going to have a lump on my jaw like a turkey's egg."

"Will you tell us what happened, Mr. Somers?" said the Inspector.

Algy was tying a handkerchief around his thumb.

"William told me about the short cuts. He told me something else too. His girl heard Sturrock ring Brewster up on Sunday afternoon—she's the housemaid at the Hand and Flower. That is what I was going to see Mr. Lushington about. I thought he ought to know before anyone else did."

"I don't know that you were right about that, sir."

Algy lifted a hand and let it fall again. "Well, that's what I thought, I came around that corner and saw Dr. Hammond's car, and when I got clear of the car I saw Dr. Hammond. He was standing on the edge of the quarry with his hands above his head and Brewster holding him up with a pistol. I tried to get there without being heard, but he suddenly loosed off his gun and the Doctor went over the edge. I thought he was done for. I don't know why he wasn't."

Dr. Hammond's head came up again.

"I jumped," he said with a wry grin. "Brewster said, 'I'm tired of you. Out you go!' But I didn't wait for the word—I beat the pistol. And those infernal brambles practically skinned me alive."

"Better alive than dead, sir," said Inspector Boyce. He loked at Algy with a dubious expression. "Well, sir, all this is a bit awkward for me. You see, what with one thing and another, the evidence had got pretty well piled up against you, and—well it's a bit awkward, but I've got a warrant for your arrest."

Dr. Hammond gave a groan. "Boyce, you continue to blither, and I warn you that I am in no state to be blithered at. That's my professional opinion. Free, gratis, and for nothing. Here, give me a hand up—I don't want a crick in the neck as well as a sock on the jaw." He groaned again as he got to his feet. "Now, Boyce, get this into your head. The, I hope, late Mr. Brewster murdered Sir Francis Colesborough and Sturrock, and did his best to murder Mr. Somers and me. He boasted about Sir Francis and the butler—I heard him. Mr. Somers saw him shoot at me, and I saw him shoot at Mr. Somers. Now what's your damn fool warrant worth? Hang it all, man, you can't go arresting him now!"

SEWING CIRCLE MEETS

The W. T. L. Sewing circle met at the home of Mrs. Ruth Spayde Wednesday for an all-day meeting.

The president, Violet Hoeflich, presided at the business meeting. A farewell gift was presented to Florence Teeter by the club members.

Following a covered dish dinner the members worked on a comfort top for the hostess. Contests were won by Christina Hardin and Naomi Sorgen.

The next meeting will be at the home of Violet Hoeflich.

MOTHER'S CLUB MEETS

The Bellville Mothers club met Tuesday evening at the Community house. The vice president, Mrs. Relk Cherp had charge of the business meeting.

Mrs. Blake Garber, Mrs. G. L. Cherp and Mrs. Paul Reel had charge of the program and read articles on "Healthful Attitudes Toward Health." Mrs Cherp also read a paper on "National Child Parenthood Week."

The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in June.

FOREMEN ELECT

Club Names Officers Monday, Hears Dayton Lecturer.

Officers will be elected by the Mansfield City Foremen's club Monday night at the organization's final meeting of the season at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Officers of the national foremen's organization, with which the Mansfield group is affiliated, will attend the session. C. F. Beddard, president of the Mansfield club, said. The meeting will be "National Association night" for the local unit.

The principal speaker will be Dr. Frank Slutz, of Dayton, widely known lecturer, who will talk on "Is Personality an Enigma?" The musical program will be arranged by club representatives of the Ohio Fuel Gas company and Ohio Public Service company.

Election of officers and the program will follow a dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the hotel ballroom.

Bowler Loses In Court Fight For Tourney Awards

Release of about $1,200 in cash awards due winners in the recent national Moose lodge bowling tournament held in Mansfield, was ordered yesterday in Richland county common pleas court after Edwin L. Slagel, Ft. Wayne, Ind., a participant, lost his suit against officials of the tournament.

The funds, on deposit at the Mansfield Savings and Trust company, have been tied up for three weeks under a temporary injunction granted by Judge C. H. Huston.

Slagle filed his action in the court here, charging that he had been deprived, without cause, of a first prize medal and about $60 in cash awards. He contended he had won first place in the all-events, doubles and singles.

The defense, represented by Atty. J. V. Will, argued, that Slagle had misrepresented his bowling average in league competition when he entered the tournament which was conducted here in March on a handicap basis.

Slagle's rank among the prize winners was dropped, tourney officials said, when it was learned he had bowled on a 45-pin handicap basis to which he was not entitled. His prizes now amount to $5. He was represented in court by Atty. Chester L. Teeter of Ft. Wayne and Arden Wisman of Bucyrus.

Jeromesville

BRIEFS

The Fidelity class of the Christian church met Tuesday evening at the parsonage.

The Wide Awake club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Harry Lindecamp Friday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Boyd Winbigler, conducted the business session. The hostess, assisted by her daughter, served refreshments.

WINS $16,000 JUDGMENT IN BUCYRUS COURT

Sulphur Springs Resident Is Awarded Damages in Long Court Battle.

BUCYRUS—One of the largest money judgments ever to be awarded in the local court was given in a verdict by a jury here when Ervin J. Wagner of Sulphur Springs was awarded a verdict of $16,000 against Clinton Long of east of Bucyrus.

The verdict was the outgrowth of an automobile collision on route 98 in 1933 and terminates a long legal battle. A previous jury returned a verdict for Long, which was vacated by Judge C. U. Ahl. The case was carried to the court of appeals by the defendant and was certified to the supreme court which remanded it for another trial.

Court Determines Heirs.

By a ruling of Judge C. U. Ahl heirs and beneficiaries in the case of Karl E. Miller, administrator of the estate of W. H. Flegel against I. Thornton Geiger and others, were determined today.

The petitioner asked for a declaratory judgment to determine the heirs. Heirs are I. Thoronton and Ruth Geiger, Martin McLaughlin, Maure M. Fetters, George, Andrew, David and Coulson Endsley; nine children of Austin F. Flegel and the widow and two children of E. Wolcott Flegel, W. F. Flegel, Nellie Hayes Henton, Nellie Flegel Taylor, Mary Belle Shepard and Olive M. Flegel.

The $28,000 damage suit of Donald Townsend of Galion against Bert Place, Galion, entered upon its second day in common pleas court today. Townsend asks judgment for alleged personal and property damages received when his motorcycle which he was riding collided with an automobile driven by the defendant in Galion in 1936.

Action to set aside a deed for Bucyrus real estate charging intent to defraud, was filed today by Alfred S. Leuthold, trustee of Eva Firman, bankrupt against Eva and Earl Firman. The petition charges that a deed to Bucyrus real estate was delivered to Earl Firman, father-in-law of Eva Firman, with intent to defraud creditors.

A. G. Stoltz, jr., against Minnie and James Jackson, action filed asking judgment of $665 alleged to be due for rental on real estate which the defendants have occupied since 1934 and on a promissory note executed to Ackley and Roessler, Inc., and assigned to Stoltz.

PAM— Surprises! By A. W. Brewerton

TWO VERY SURPRISING THINGS HAPPENED TO PAM IN THE NEXT 24 HOURS! FIRST, -SHE RECEIVED A PROPOSAL OF MARRIAGE FROM THAT VERY IMPETUOUS YOUNG ACCOUNTANT, DAN DALLIS
5-7
WHY-WHY-YOU CAN'T REALLY MEAN THAT, DAN! WHY, WE HARDLY KNOW EACH OTHER -WELL, I MEAN!-I-I LIKE YOU A LOT, BUT--- I MEAN IT, PAM -GUESS I REALLY--
---FELL IN LOVE WITH YOU, FIRST TIME I SAW YOU
I-LIKE YOU- VERY MUCH, DAN -BUT I DON'T LOVE YOU ENOUGH TO-MARRY YOU- I---
IS-IS IT SOME ONE ELSE, PAM?
I-I'M -NOT SURE -DAN,
AND HERE'S PAM ALONE LATER!
SWEET OLD DAN! IMAGINE HIS THINKING HE COULD BE IN LOVE WITH ME SO SOON! I DO LIKE HIM - HE'S A FINE SQUARE-SHOOTING FELLOW, ALL RIGHT, BUT I-I DON'T KNOW THAT I COULD EVER LOVE HIM!
THEN EARLY NEXT MORNING CAME THAT LETTER, FORWARDED FROM THE CITY, WHICH, WHEN SHE READ IT, ALMOST TOOK PAM'S BREATH AWAY!
NOW - WHO'S THAT FROM?-WHY IT'S FROM DALEBURG - WHERE I WENT TO SEE DAVID!

WELL-I FOLLOWED INSTRUCTIONS- I WENT WALKING IN THE MOONLIGHT WITH THE OLD LADY- WHISPERED SWEET NOTHINGS IN HER EAR, AND BEFORE I KNEW IT SHE WAS SIGHING LIKE A WOUNDED PIPE-ORGAN-
GREAT! DID YOU MANAGE TO GET ANY INFORMATION ABOUT GUMP?
HE DOESN'T SUSPECT A THING- AS FAST AS WE SELL "UNIVERSAL UTILITIES" HE GOBBLES IT UP- BUT THAT OLD LADY- I'M AFRAID I'LL HAVE NO MORE CHANCE OF GETTING AWAY FROM HER THAN A PEANUT SURROUNDED BY A HERD OF HUNGRY ELEPHANTS-
'RAY! WE'RE SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD WITH A PILE OF FOUR-LEAF CLOVERS AND A HORSESHOE IN EACH HAND
I'M SO HAPPY! HE ALMOST PROPOSED TO ME TONIGHT! IT WON'T BE LONG NOW! SOFT SERENADES IN THE MOONLIGHT- MY LIFE IS LIGHTED WITH THE RADIANT COLORS OF JOY- WHEE! -A.Z.
MAMA DARLING- SHALL I GET YOU AN ASPIRIN?

UTILITY GROUP KEEPS MARKET ON EVEN KEEL

Small Advances Registered In Active Opening; Study Motor Stocks.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Further demand for utility stocks kept the market on a little better than even keel in today's early dealings.

At a moderately active opening small advances were registered for Electric Power & Light, Public Service of N. J., Peoples Gas, General Electric, Westinghouse, American Water Works, Bethlehem, Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., Anaconda, Sears Roebuck and North American.

Folowers of the motor shares studied figures of the automobile manufacturers association which disclosed factory shipments of passenger cars and trucks in April totalled 237,400 units against 238,735 in March and 553,321 in April last year.

In the matter of steels, market observers were looking forward to the U. S. Steel Corp., report on April shipments, due at noon Tuesday. In some quarters usually well informed the opinion was expressed deliveries for the month fell between 75,000 and 100,000 tons under March. There was one less working day in April, however, and this would account for a sizable portion of the drop.

DEMAND WAGE, HOUR DEBATE

House Members Want Rules Waived So Measure Won't Meet Further Delay.

and, consequently, delay adjournment.

Delay In Conference.

The senate passed a much different version last year. If the house passed the revised bill, the differences would have to be ironed out by a senate-house conference committee—and that's where the chances for delay arise.

Rep. Cox (D., Ga.), one of the bill's foes, predicted that the legislation would receive house approval.

"But that doesn't mean we're going to have a wage-hour law," he said. "There still is the senate to reckon with."

Majority Leader Rayburn of Texas, who signed the petition, said the bill probably would be amended on the house floor.

In its present form, the bill would establish immediately a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour. This minimum would be increased five cents annually until it reached 40 cents at the end of three years. Maximum hours would start at 44 per week and drop to 40 in two years.

The bill contains no provision for wage differentials between the north and south. This rigidity has been criticized by southern Democrats who contend allowances should be made for lower living costs in the south. Only 22 southerners signed the petition.

The American Federation of Labor has insisted on national uniform wage standards.

Northern members, both Democrats and Republicans, also are opposed to differentials on the ground they would tend to lure northern industries to the south.

The house considered today legislation to create an independent agency to regulate all civil aviation.

The senate was not in session. It is to take up the conference report on the administration's tax revision measure Monday.

'MYSTERY MAN' TAKES DOWN HIS HAIR AND TALKS

Never Lived In Tree But Loves Nature; Hugh J. Fokner's Life Has Been Simple.

bit queer because he never wore a hat.

"Look at the students on a college campus today," he said, "none of them cover their heads."

His story goes back to 1884, when he was born on the plains of Nebraska. Out there, they used to call him David, he said, because he was a sheperd boy.

When he was 18, he disagreed with his father and started east on his own. He spent a little while in Kansas City going to the university there, but didn't like the place, and came still farther east to Oberlin.

There he met Dr. Leonard, a student of Harvard's back-to-nature cultist, Dr. Sargent. Always a lover of nature and the out-of-dors, their theories appealed to the boy from the west and he stayed.

As we walked around the ivy-covered house, Fokner told me of the winter of 1923 when he lived there as caretaker. Peering through the windws, he pointed out the old music boxes still in their familiar places in the sitting room.

In early Mansfield days, this castle belonged to Dr. Johannes A. Jones. His name plate still is on the door and although unoccupied by that family for many years, the house is furnished much as it was 50 years ago.

The "mystery man" is associated with the castle because it was Dr. Jones' youngest daughter, Leile, with whom he says he fell in love and also because he was around the house for many years as caretaker.

He told me that antique lovers from all over the country have tried to buy the beautiful pieces of furniture that the family left behind when they closed the house 10 years ago—the high-shelved desk still in the doctor's office, the dust-covered rosewood piano in the music room.

For four years, Fokner worked around the "castle," repairing the sloping roof with new shingles, replacing the bricks at the back of the house and remodeling the garage. After a storm tore the Trumpet's vine and ivy from the brick wall, he cut and trimmed the vines near the roots. Today, it is all grown again, reaching far up to the eaves.

It wasn't until several years ago that he discovered he was the inspiration for the character of "Krylenko," the Russian in Bromfield's "Green Bay Tree" and "The Forty-Niner" in the novelist's "The Farm."

He never knew Bromfield, but it developed that the novelist had learned of Fokner's life through Leile, a cousin.

Eight years ago, Fokner moved outside of the city camping in the woods and selling firewood to townspeople. He says he didn't know there was a depression until it was almost over.

That was when townspeople started the rumor that he lived in a tree. He camped out, cooking his meals over a bonfire and working all day cutting wood.

It was one of the happiest years he has lived, he said, because he was out-of-doors all the time.

"I can't be cooped up and exist" he explained, "The worst year of my life was spent in a factory in Elyria. After that winter of confinement, I knew I could never work in an office."

The professions of law or medicine never appealed to him. He thought at one time he would teach physical education. Then, he realized there was little future in it. He admits he would never be happy if he HAD to do a job at a certain place and at a specific time every day.

He's wise enough to know when he's happy and follow that lead. He enjoys working in gardens and on lawns here and says he understands that work well.

At night, he has a room at the American Grocery Co., where he serves as night watchman, stationed there to guard against any prowlers who might happen around. So far there have been none, but should there be, he is in condition to meet all comers, he says.

His night job seldom bothers his sleep and has the added virtue that it leaves his days free for reading at the library. At present, he is interested in studying the stock market ups and downs and the theory of trading. If and when he feels he is well enough informed, he expects to invest a little money. He makes daily visits to the Vercoe & Company, brokers, in the Walpark building, to study market figures.

"I don't believe in playing the market," he said, "but I do believe in working it. One doesn't need a fortune if he studies the market over a long-time swing."

Why he wears the striped jumper suit, Fokner declined to say. Perhaps it's a throwback to his days as a mechanic when he repaired automobiles in the outdoor work shop back of the castle.

So natural did he look in the buckskin jacket and coonskin cap in Monday's Northwest Territory parade that his presence on the woodland float started another rumor that he was going to join the caravan.

That story, he says, is pure fiction. He intends to stay in Mansfield indefinitely. If possible next winter he would like to take another trip to Florida. He's been there once.

No, he isn't going to shave his whiskers or cut his hair. They may stand him in good stead some day, he believes, and give him the job in special selling that he's been thinking about for quite a few years.

SALARIES DROP

Knudsen Received $140,380, Kettering $95,120 In '37.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Securities and exchange commission reports revealed today a sharp drop in 1937 salaries of William S. Knudsen, General Motors Corp., president and other General Motors officials.

The salary figures were presented in anual reports filed with the SEC by the corporations. In most cases, aside from General Motors, the reports indicated an upward trend in corporate compensation.

The General Motors report showed that Knudsen, who was executive vice president part of 1937, received total remuneration of $140,380, compared with $507,645 in 1936. Charles F. Kettering, vice president, drew $95,120 in 1937, a reduction of $258,635 from 1936. Both officials received a share of profits in 1936 but only salaries in 1937.

ain, France and Germany.

2. To extend to Hitler his friendly diplomatic and moral support in the German campaign to exert a "protective" interest over the German minority in Czechoslovakia, provided that Hitler's aims were achieved by peaceful means.

On this second point, it was the belief in well informed quarters that the agreement meant just what it said—that Mussolini would give moral support to Germany but that Germany could not depend on Italy's support if war resulted from its campaign in behalf of the minority.

What Hitler promised Mussolini in return was not known. But sources whose information has been accurate in the past expressed belief that he had promised not to undermine Italian influence in Hungary; to respect Italian trade interests in central and southeastern Europe, and to waive in Italy's favor any economic advantages that might derive from a nationalist victory in the Spanish civil war.

France, Britain Act To Ease War Jitters.

PARIS—(AP)—French and British diplomats, bound together like their two war machines by last week's talks in London, took action today to treat Europe's war jitters.

The first step was instructions to ambassadors of the two countries to deliver notes to Germany and Czechoslovakia, cautioned them against violence in settling the clamor of Nazi Germans in Czechoslovakia for increased political privileges.

The warning carried the inference that "rough handling" by Germany of the issue of the 3,500,000 German residents in Czechoslovakia almost certainly would cause war.

The Anglo-French effort was two-pointed, with diplomats hoping to get Czechoslovakia to do everything possible for its German Nazi minority, and second to make clear to both the concern lest there be violence.

Another chapter of the Anglo-French collaboration, intensified by last week's London conversations between Prime Ministers Chamberlain and Daladier, dealt with further appeasement of Italy.

An effort was under way to smooth the path to recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia by the League of Nations council which meets Monday.

Frank Accuses Lobby Committee of 'Terror' Campaign

Not That It Matters

—By JANE WILLIAMS

EDITOR'S NOTE—Naturally, since Helen Allun of the Cleveland Press came down here to take over Jane Williams' job for a week, she was expected also to write Jane's weekly column. Here she gives you her impression of Mansfield and Mansfielders after spending a week with us.

* * * * *

By HELEN ALLYN

"Well, how do you like Mansfield?"

Without variation or exception, everyone I've met here this week has greeted me with that question. To each, I've replied, "Fine" because it takes a smarter person than this guest-reporter to find out all there is to know about a city the size of Mansfield in six short days. If I were to attempt to write a dissertation on the community after my short stay, I'd be like a tourist coming home from a two-week trip to Europe and setting himself up as an expert on "International Relations."

In a week's visit, the stranger gains only a fleeting impression of any city (one that might well be changed in a month's stay) but for better or worse, here are some of the reactions of this "pinch hitter" for Jane Williams.

There are, of course, the perfectly obvious comparisons between a large city and one the size of Mansfield. A reporter notices the variation in distances, first. Going downtown in Cleveland means an all day job for the suburban housewife. Here, she can walk from many homes and return without losing more than an hour's time.

Then, there are the views from hill-tops that may be "old stories" to the natives but are truly beautiful to the person from flat country who is seeing them for the first time. There are the new residential sections with homes that can't be beat for modernity, comfort and beauty any where.

There's a difference, too, in working for a metropolitan daily with more than 60 reporters on the editorial staff and one with 12 on the staff. While the Press has experts in every field from radio to babies, The News-Journal staff has to do stories about all subjects. Instead of the two editions here, we make four a day and sometimes five. Our by-word is "speed" because we not only have to get the story that day, but try to beat the opposition at least an edition. Still since we have a larger staff we have moments of leisure when we get "caught up" with our work and wait until the next story breaks. Here, it's a question of when you'll get through. Hours mean nothing. There's always work to be done. Jane said she hoped the desk would keep me busy. Believe me, it has. I wanted to find out what it's like to work on a paper of this size. It's no vacation, so help me!

And then . . . there are the people. Why, may I ask, do Mansfielders tell a newcomer he'll have a hard time getting acquainted here? Are they proud of being clannish? One person said, "Well, I suppose Jane is having a better time in Cleveland than you are here . . . because, you know we have a reputation for being chilly." It's like opening the door of your house and then putting your foot on the threshold to keep the stranger out. I haven't found Mansfielders hard to meet. Everyone has been friendly, helpful, and apparently interested.

I like the attitude of the store clerks. Their courtesy seems genuine rather than the mechanical, styled politeness that comes from training schools in big city department stores.

In a week's time, I haven't seen anyone RUN across the street. There have been no "sudden deaths" from jaywalking—no motorists yelling out of windows, "Where do you think you're going, anyhow?"

There is less pressure, less frantic running about in circles, fewer hair-breadth finishes, and more time to think about the other fellow.

In the Winchell manner, I would give a big orchid to the bus driver who, on the 6 p. m. run out West Fourth street, waited until a woman crossed the street, asked him questions about the destination of the bus. The delay made him miss the green light. He had to wait until it turned green again, but that didn't make him lose his temper.

There's another orchid due the schoolboy patrol system here. Every morning when I've walked down West Fourth street I've joined Simpson Junior high students crossing the street at Bowman. They take no chances. You couldn't get across against the red light if you wanted to, with eight youngsters holding their red flagged-poles and stop signs.

One thing a newcomer does miss is the "number, PLEASE" of the telephone operators and the "thank you" when you give it to her. It's a slap in the ear to have a dictaphone voice ask "number?" without so much as an inflection to suggest there's a human behind it. I saw an advertisement about the voice with a smile. If there is one, I haven't heard it over the telephone wire.

* * *

The week of exchange between Jane Williams and myself is all over now. When the news was first broken to some of the wise-acre reporters at my office, there were plenty of cracks about "being sold down the river" and "putting you out in the bush leagues" but after being here a week, I'm wondering if some of these big city guys know what they're missing. If Mansfield is a typical American community, there must be a legion of lucky people in this world.

How did I like Mansfield? Fine!

Sawyer Hits Davey's 'Million-Dollar' Fund

'WHO WILL GET BALANCE?' RADIO ADDRESS ASKS

Campaign Fund 'Outrageously' Excessive, Gubernatorial Candidate Declares.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Charles Sawyer asked today what disposition would be made of an estimated "million dollar" campaign fund assertedly being raised by his Democratic gubernatorial primary opponent, Martin L. Davey.

The reported assessment of state employes for five per cent of their salaries to finance Davey's third-term bid was injected as a campaign issue by Sawyer in a party battle that appeared likely to grow increasingly bitter before the Aug. 9 primary.

Shortly after a Hamilton county grand jury indicted a state liquor store inspector on six charges involving solicitation of campaign funds from liquor store employes, Sawyer told a state-wide radio audience from Cincinnati:

Hits 'Forced' Donations.

"I do not say to you or to anyone that campaign contributions are wrong, but, there is a vast difference between requesting anyone to make a political contribution, whether he be a public employe or not, and on the other hand holding a gun to his head and saying to him that if he does not contribute a certain amount he will lose his job.

"It has been estimated that if this plan is completely successful it will raise the vast sum of $1,000,000."

Declaring that the total cost to the Democratic national committee for 1936 campaign expenses, to aid President Roosevelt, senators and representatives in 48 states, was only $3,866,400, Sawyer asserted that the $1,000,000 for even a "lavish" campaign was "outrageously excessive."

"If this money (the $1,000,000) is not spent on the campaign, where will it go?" Sawyer asked. "Who will get the balance? If this money is to be spent wholly upon campaigning it will have to be wasted like water, and wasted at a time when tens of thousands of citizens of this state are on relief."

The indictment of the liquor inspector, Frank C. Schroer of Cincinnati, followed an investigation by Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy that the assessments violated civil service laws.

Up and Down THE STREET

That rusty-haired gentleman you saw taking his dog for a walk on South Walnut street this morning was none other than Richard "Red" Skelton, Mansfield's fast-climbing contribution to the stage and screen. Completing a week's appearance in Chicago, "Red" came home yesterday for a few days' visit with his brothers, Paul and Denny.

Jimmy Lemley, blind proprietor of the concession stand at the courthouse, wore a bigger smile than usual yesterday, because Jimmy was observing his first anniversary in business. The "recession" has had little effect on the pop, ice cream and cigar business so far as he is concerned, Jimmy says, and his volume of business has shown a steady increase during his first year. The stand is operated through the co-operation of the State Commission for the Blind and the Richland county commissioners.

H. W. Arlin, movie enthusiast, is regusted. He took lots of color shots (he hopes they were good) of the Mansfield Relays, and yesterday got back the films — at least, he thought they were Relays films. He rushed around and set up the screen, to get a look at his newest masterpiece in movie-taking. And he saw—not the Relays at all, but some very dull and uninteresting pictures of a California real estate development, sent to him by mistake by the processers of the films. Arlin hasn't the slightest idea who got his Relays pictures.

FLAYS SENATE PROBING BODY AS 'SNOOPERS'

G.O.P. Leader Says Committee Wages Drive To Intimidate Nation's Press.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the Republican program committee and former president of the University of Wisconsin, accused the senate lobby committee today of waging a "campaign of terror and intimidation" against the press.

He assailed the group headed by Sen. Sherman Minton, D., Ind., as a "snooping committee" which, he said, was "actuated obviously by political and partisan motives." He charged that Minton had used his authority "to harass and intimidate" any newspaper or magazine that had criticized the New Deal.

Testimony Refused.

Frank's statement was made after the lobby committee had refused him permission to testify at an investigation of the magazine, Rural Progress, of which he is editor. Minton and Sen. Lewis B. Schwellenbach, D., Wash., contended that they would not afford Frank an opportunity "to use this hearing as a forum for the Republican party."

Frank had not been subpenaed by the committee, but accompanied M. V. Reynolds, vice president and chairman of the board of the magazine's management, who was questioned about the publication's alleged lobby activities and its financial support.

In his formal statement Frank said that the hearing was "a part of a carefully laid campaign of terror and intimidation against the newspapers and magazines of this country which dare to criticize the New Deal."

Testimony at yesterday's lobby committee hearing, at which Frank was refused permission to volunteer information concerning the magazine "rural progress," revealed that Dr. Edward A. Rumley, executive secretary of the national committee to uphold constitutional government, had loaned the magazine $12,500 and that he held approximately $18,000 of stock.

The magazine has been critical of the New Deal's policies.

KILLER FAILS IN SUICIDE TRY

Confessed Marion Slayer Of Farmer, Wife Slashes Throat In Delaware Jail.

(By Associated Press)

DELAWARE — His throat severely slashed by a razor, H. L. Roush, confessed slayer of Mr. and Mrs. Homer T. Myers, Marion county farm couple, was in a hospital here today.

Paul D. Michel, Marion prosecutor who hurried here, said the injury was self-inflicted. Roush, he said, was transferred to the Delaware county jail last Monday for "safekeeping" after he pleaded guilty to a charge of killing Myers.

Dr. Harry Caldwell said he expected Roush to recover.

Sheriff Murt Pinney of Delaware county said the man had been allowed to join other prisoners in the jail's "bull pen," and early last night he went unnoticed into an unoccupied cell and slashed his throat.

Prisoners summoned aid and Roush, who worked as a farm hand for Myers, was taken to the hospital where a guard was placed over him. Dr. Caldwell said he lost much blood.

Roush said in his confession that he killed Mr. and Mrs. Myers over a $1,400 debt he owed the prominent farm leader.

CONGRESSMEN TO DEFY DENIAL OF SPEECH PERMIT IN JERSEY

(By Associated Press)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., — Two United States representatives were denied permission today to make public speeches in Jersey City tonight by Public Safety Director Daniel Casey, who described them as "personally obnoxious to the great majority of our citizens because of their communistic endeavors."

Reps. Jerry J. O'Connell (D-Mont) and John T. Bernard (FI-Minn) nevertheless carried forward plans to address a mass meeting in Journal Square where socialist leader Norman Thomas last week made, unsuccessfully, a similar attempt.

Casey said his denial was based "on the ground that said meeting would tend to create disorder and disturbance."

Two groups of organizations with opposite objectives planned to observe a seemingly inevitable clash of Jersey City police and the congressmen—war veterans who backed Mayor Frank Hague, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, in his stand against "radicals," and organizations which charged Hague with the suppression of civil rights.

There was a possibility that when the congressmen approached the appointed scene, mid-town Journal Square, they would find it too crowded to permit their entrance. The last time the citizens of Jersey City were called upon to support their mayor, nearly 25,000 of them jammed the armory for a rally against the "red invasion" of the CIO.

The presence of several thousand veterans was promised, and last night two organizations affiliated with the AFL, the Hudson County Building and Construction Trades council and the Central Labor union, joined in the protest against the "invasion."

Michael F. Condron of Orange, vice president of the State Federation of Labor, termed Hague "the best statesman in America," and said, "let Jerry O'Connell bring 1,000 reds along with him and they'll get a good warm reception, I hope."

FAIR ENOUGH!

Why Is Man Who Wants To Save a Few Bucks Regarded as Safeblower?

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—I wish I knew something about money, banking and credit so I could agree with Jesse Jones, or dispute him just as noisily, on his warning that the banks had better take the rubber band off that roll of theirs and let a few bills into circulation if they don't want to be taken over.

But all I know is that the banks have got so much money that a man who wants to hide away a little these days is treated like a safe-blower.

They want to know where he got it, why he doesn't spend it, why he doesn't take it to the rival bank down the block, how long he expects to store it and how long it has been since his last deposit.

They limit the amount he may keep in a savings account, and further to discourage the fine old virtue of thrift, they pay less interest than he could earn by betting on a favorite in a New York handbook. It is no harder to wheedle a $2 touch out of a pawnshop on an old banjo or trombone than to persuade a New York savings bank to accept $10,000 cash money.

Yet, as Mr. Jones says and as Honest Harold Ickes, complained a few months ago if a man wants to borrow a few dollars to pay his alimony or open a new saloon they bar the doors.

Meanwhile, through Jim Farley's post offices Henry Morgenthau is shoving out government bonds on the credit of an institution which is practically in the hands of the sheriff right now, and people regard these bonds as gilt-edge investments even though they know the government's cuff has been scrabbled on clear up to the shoulder.

People who would holler "robber!" and storm the doors of a private corporation to demand a reorganization if they saw the chairman bite the end off a quarter cigar have complete confidence in the I. O. U.'s of a concern which, under their own eyes, has built boulevards leading to nowhere at ten times a fair efficient cost.

I just wish Mr. Jones or Mr. Ickes would tell us some day about some good private industries in which an investment would pay a safe 5 or 6 per cent or some respectable gamble in which the people with all this money could get the same action at the same odds that they would face betting on the black or red. Of course, if they won on the latter they might have to kick back as much as two-thirds to the federal and state kitties, a factor which reduces the odds from the neighborhood of even money to something like 4 to 3.

I had some money last year and bought some of Henry Morgenthau's bonds, through Jim Farley knowing that the boys would then turn around and give it away some of it to busted people in need but a lot of it goes to people who don't need it. But that's me. I even play slot machines although I once saw an autopsy on one.

Churches Pay Tribute To Mothers Tomorrow In Programs, Sermons

Two Services at St. Paul Church; Baptists Commemorate Day With Musical Numbers; Mother-Daughter Dinners Next Week.

Mansfield churches tomorrow will join the nation in paying tribute to mothers with programs and sermons in observance of Mother's day.

A majority of the pastors will have sermons relating to Mother's day, while at least six churches will hold Mother's day programs.

Two special services in honor of the day will be held at St. Paul Lutheran church. During the Sunday school hour at 9 a. m. Mrs. Herman L. Gilbert will present a Mother's day story, and Miss Jane Weuthrick will provide music. Mrs. Glenn Miller, Mrs. Freda Harden and Miss Mary Kelsey are in charge of the service.

During the worship service at 10 a. m. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor, will preach on the subject, "The Faith of Our Mothers."

The church's annual Mother-Daughter banquet will be held Tuesday evening in the church parlors. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. George Berg, Mrs. Gordon Schwan and Mrs. Walter Wisecup. The Mary Markley society of the church will meet Thursday evening with Miss Mildred Berg, 163 South Foster street. Miss Katherine Bollman will present the

At the Park Avenue Baptist church a musical program in honor of Mother's day will be given at 10:30 a. m. The choir will sing an anthem, "O Mother Love," written by Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music.

Mrs. Sherman Skaggs will sing Goodwin's "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," and Frank will play as his selections, "Prayer" from Hansel and Gretel," by Humperdinck, "Largo" from "Xerxes," by Handel, and a medley of Mother's Favorite Hymns. Miss Willamine Hoffman will sing during the church school at 9:15 a. m.

Baptist Dinner Friday.

Ths church's annual Mother and Daughter banquet will be held at 6:30 p. m. Friday in the church parlors and will be sponsored by the World Wide Guild. Miss Ruth Slack, instructor of dramatics at Ashland college, will be the speaker.

Miss Charlet Cellars will be guest flutist Sunday at the First Congregational church during a Mother's day service at 10:45 a. m. Miss Cellars will play "Ave Maria" by Bach-Gounod.

The choir under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr will sing "Sweet Is Thy Mercy," by Barnby, with Mrs. Carl Walker as soloist, and Miss Kathleen MacIntosh, soprano, will sing "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Miss Louise Krause, church organist, will play "The Rosary" by Nevin as the prelude and "Stabat Mater," by Kuechel, as the postlude.

Program at St. John's.

Mother's day will be observed at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church at a combined Sunday school and church service at 9 a. m.

The program will include an address by Fred Haag, jr., a vocal solo, "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," by Charles Gilbert, a poem by Marcille Maglott and Mrs. Emma Campbell, selections by an instrumental trio comprising Ann Jeanette Klinger, piano, Joseph Pival, violin and Frank Pival, cello, and music by the Sunday school orchestra under the direction of Frank Vild.

The choir, under the direction of John Klinger, will sing, "Mother Love," and Mrs. Helen Heston, organist, will play a special number. Recognition will be given to the youngest and oldest mother present. Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor, will speak. The service will be in charge of members of the Sunday school class taught by Miss Emma Berg.

Combined Service.

A combined Cradle Roll and Mother's day program will be held at 9:30 a. m. at the Church of the Nazarene. A sermon will be given by the pastor, Mrs. D. L. Brandenburg, and a baptismal service will be held for small children.

A potted plant will be given to the oldest mother present, and to the mother having the largest number of relatives present, and each mother attending the service will be given a gift. Favorite hymns in honor of mothers also will be sung.

A two-week series of revival services will open Sunday at the church at 7:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. and Mrs. W. Harding of Oklahoma.

Mother's day will be observed Sunday at St. Matthew's Lutheran church with a service at 10:30 a. m. Music will be presented by the choir and Rev. C. F. Sheriff, pastor, will preach on the subject, "The Greatest Mother in The World."

Mrs. Ednah Lewis, of Akron, will be the speaker at a Mother's day service to be held at 3 p. m. Sunday at the Shiloh Baptist church. She will speak on her recent trip to the Holy Land. Music will be furnished by the Union Four, the Spiritual Four and the Female quartets of Mansfield.

Scout Services In Park.

Boy Scouts of troop No. 10 of the Friendly House will commemorate the day with a sunrise flag raising service at Central park.

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be the speaker at the service.

Following taps by a member of the troop, the scouts will raise the new flag recently given to the city on the flagpole in Central park. The scouts will be assisted in the services with their Scoutmaster Curtis Wright, members of the troop committee, Russell Gimbel, headworker at the settlement, and Floyd Dent, area scout executive.

The eight members of the troop will meet at the Friendly House at 5:30 a. m. Sunday and will march to the park in a body. Troop No. 10 is sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

MEETS MONDAY

Third Session Of Leadership School At M. E. Church.

The third session of the Interdenominational Standard Leadership Training school, sponsored by the Mansfield Ministerial association and Sunday school superintendents, will be held at 7 p. m. Monday at the First Methodist church.

Teachers in the school are Prof. James Anderson of Wooster college, Rev. Paul Hollingshead, pastor of the Central Methodist church, Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Charles Ray.

Courses being offered are "The New Testament: Its Contents and Values," "The Old Testament Prophets and Their Messages," "Guiding Young People in Their Religious Development," and "Guiding Children in Religious Experience."

Men Pay Tribute To Mothers In Ontario Services

A tribute to mothers will be paid by men of the Ontario Community church when they conduct the annual Mother's day services at the church Sunday morning.

Recognition will be given to the youngest mother present, the mother having the largest of children present, the eldest mother, and the mother traveling the greatest distance to attend the service. Potted plants will be given these women while each mother present will receive a bouquet of sweet peas.

The program which will be given by the men of the congregation includes prayer by L. L. Rinehart, Ray Downs will read the scripture, L. R. Snyder will present a vocal solo, J. T. Shaffer will speak to the children, and David Schraedly, jr., and H. M. Cook will speak during the service. The Men's chorus will furnish the music.

Installation services for recently elected officers of the Epworth League of the church will be held Sunday at 8 p. m. during the evening worship service.

Officers of the league are Robert Walker, president; Mary Baker, first vice president; Marguerite Walker, second vice president; Lucile Fox, thhird vice president; Rhea Downs, fourth vice president; Frances Stingel, secretary; Dale Berry, treasurer; Mean Milligan, pianist; Alice Rinehart, institute secretary, and Mrs. R. A. Hall, counsellor.

'ADAM AND MAN'

That's Topic Of Scientist Lesson Sermon For Sunday.

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The golden text is: "The Redeemer shall come to Zion, and unto them that turn from transgression in Jacob, saith the Lord." (Isaiah 59:20).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing" (Zephaniah 3: 17).

BEGINS REVIVAL

Mt. Calvary Church To Open 10-Day Services Monday Evening.

Beginning Monday and continuing for 10 days a spring revival will be held at Mt. Calvary Baptist church, Rev. A. J. McCrary, pastor, announced today.

The services will be conducted by Rev. H. H. Coleman, Detroit evangelist, who has been conducting evangelistic services for more than 25 years.

At 2:30 p. m. Sunday a special Mother's day service will be held at the church by Rev. McCrary.

GIVES CANTATA

Music Study Club Chorus Presents Program Sunday, May 15.

The Mansfield Music Study club chorus of 40 voices will present a special musical program Sunday afternoon, May 15, at the First Congregational church.

The chorus will give the cantata "Christ in the World," by Noble Cain. A Le Moine Derr, director of the Congregational church choir will direct the chorus.

SEES RFC HELP OPEN 40,000 RAILROAD JOBS

Jones Says Liberalized Loans Would Help Lines Return Furloughed Men.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Chairman Jesse Jones of the reconstruction finance corporation has indicated that railroads might put 25,000 to 40,000 men back to work under liberalized RFC maintenance and equipment loans.

Jones gave his estimate to the house banking and currency committee which is considering a bill by Chairman Henry Steagall, D., Ala., to authorize the emergency loans.

The bill would permit loans to railroads without the interstate commerce commission certification that the roads were not in need of reorganization. A senate committee reported the bill favorably yesterday.

No Applications Yet.

Jones said no applications had been received for such loans, and he was not positive that the railroads would apply for them.

"All the railroads have cut employment to the bone to avoid bankruptcy," Jones said. "I don't know whether the railroads will borrow to put men back to work, but we'd like to persuade them to take some of the money. I don't know what we can do on it, but we can try something. I don't suppose there are four railroads earning fixed charges now. That means that unless things change a great many will go bankrupt. On this basis of present earnings I don't suppose a half-dozen roads could last many years."

Jones estimated 150,000 employes have been laid off by the railroads. He said he saw no chance of putting 100,000 back to work immediately.

Jones described the proposed loan policy as a "homeopathic dose."

A provision of the bill requires that 75 per cent of the loans for maintenance be used to re-employ recently-furloughed employes.

No limit is set on the amount of funds to be loaned, but Jones said he did not expect it would be great.

POLICE, FIREMEN ATTEND SERVICE

Members of 2 Departments To Be First Lutheran Guests Sunday.

Members of the Mansfield police and fire departments will be guests of the First Lutheran church Sunday at the evening service.

Members of both departments off duty will attend the service in a body in uniform. A short talk will be given by Police Chief Mead K. Bates, and Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor, will speak on the subject, "The Laughter of God."

The service will begin at 7:30 p. m.

CLOSES SEASON

Dinner of St. John's Brotherhood Monday Last Until Fall.

A chicken supper will feature the last indoor meeting until fall of the Brotherhood of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church at 6:30 p. m. Monday in the church parlors.

The supper will be served by a committee of men from the Junior Married Peoples class, with Esley Cleckner as supper chairman. A musical program and a one-act play will be presented following the supper. John Klinger is chairman of the entertainment.

RECEPTION SET

First Christian Church To Greet 74 New Members Friday.

A reception for 74 new members recently taken into membership of the First Christian church will be held at 6:30 p. m. Friday at the church.

Guest speaker at the reception will be Rev. Frank Brown, pastor of the Christian church at Ashland. Greetings will be extended from the different organizations of the church and a response will be made by one of the new members.

A covered-dish supper will be served at 6:30.

UNFALTERING SERVICE

Observance of Mother's Day—so rich in sentiment, so tender in meaning—is one of the most beautiful acts a nation can proclaim.

The tender and benign influence of Mother will always be a beautiful memory.

Today, we honor and reverence the mothers of this community.

MEMORIAL DAY FUNDS SET UP

Commissioners Allot $450 for Observances of 10 County Patriotic Groups.

Appropriations totaling $450 for Memorial day observances in Richland county had been made today by the board of county commissioners to 10 American Legion posts and patriotic organizations.

The amount is $100 less than the 1937 county appropriations since the Mc Laughlin post, G. A. R. in Mansfield made no request for funds this year. The post usually received a $100 appropriation, commissioners said.

Allocations, which may be used to supplement local funds in financing Memorial ceremonies, include:

Earl McVey post, American Legion, and Charles Dick camp, United Spanish War Veterans, Mansfield, $50 each; Irvin Hiskey post, American Legion, Bellville, $50; Samuel Bell post, American Legion, Sons of Veterans and G. A. R., Butler, $20; Lexington Memorial association, $50; Arehart Memorial association, Lucas, $50; Ehret post, American Legion, Plymouth, $50; O'Brien post, American Legion, Shelby, $25; Harker post, G. A. R., Shelby, $50, and the Reist post, American Legion, Shiloh, $50.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

MINNEAPOLIS — Introducing the diatreme.

The word is Greek, meaning to hole through. It defines a small hole blown through a rock by gases.

Nobody makes diatremes nowadays. Only volcanic gases have the power. But mining engineers have found a use for them. Diatremes are good for prospecting.

W. H. Emmons, director of the Minnesota geological survey, explains them in a report to the American Society of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

Where there are diatremes is a good place to look for mineral wealth. There is gold in them there diatremes, literally. There also is, silver, tin, bismuth, copper, zinc, lead and other metals.

Into the holes after the gases blew through, seeped many different minerals in liquid form. In some instances, geologists think, the minerals even were deposited as gases.

The power behind the gas has been computed. One source is the cooling of silicate and water, underground. A drop of 80 degrees figures to make enough gas to lift a mile thickness of granite.

TORCH BEARER'S BRIGADE MEETS

Mansfielder Addresses Salvation Army Young People Sunday.

A meeting of the Torch Bearer's Brigade will be held at 6 p. m. Sunday at the Salvation Army. The brigade is a unit of the International Youth Crusade movement of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Linton Mattox of Mansfield will speak to the group on Mother's day.

At the evening service at 7:30 Linton Mattox will be the speaker. Music will be presented by a group of young people under the direction of Mrs. H. Shortess.

Rev. O. M. Walter, secretary of the Cleveland Church Federation, speaks to inmates of the Ohio State reformatory at the Salvation Army's monthly service at the institution Sunday morning. He will be accompanied by Lieut. Col. E. C. Hoffman, divisional commander of the Salvation Army of Cleveland.

SPEAKS AT MISSION

Miss Lucille Hill will be the guest speaker at 3 p. m. Sunday at the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES—By Mail: Richland and adjoining counties per year, $4.00; 6 months, $2.25; 3 months, $1.25, (in advance), elsewhere in Ohio per year, $6.00; in U. S. outside of Ohio, per year, $7.00. By Carrier, per week, 15c.

SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1938.

Drive carefully tomorrow—you'll enjoy the ride more and will probably get back safely.

This will be a happier world when everybody is able to distinguish between prejudice and principle.

"Only two per cent of the American population are morons," cheerfully asserts a sociologist—which, however, might become "the balance of power" in a close election.

Community Fund Campaign Week.

NEXT WEEK is the time set for Mansfield's annual Community Fund campaign, during which subscriptions will be made to a fund apportioned among ten social service, character-building and charitable agencies.

It will probably be quite generally agreed that each of the participating agencies performs a valuable community service and is deserving of continued public support.

It would be difficult, in fact, to visualize a city such as Mansfield going along without such helpful influences as are derived from these agencies—as difficult as it would be to picture conditions in a city that was without schools and churches.

The advantages of one inclusive Community Fund campaign each year, as contrasted to the earlier plan of each agency conducting its own money-raising campaign, has long been recognized in Mansfield and there would be no wish to return to the old method.

During the progress of next week's campaign a number of Mansfield men and women will contribute liberally of their time, as well as their money, in making the campaign a success. In reality, these workers are no more interested in assuring continuance of Community Fund agencies than every citizen of Mansfield SHOULD be.

It has been said that there are two kinds of people in a city—those who help the Community Fund, and those who are helped by it. Actually, everybody in a city is helped by the work of agencies and institutions supported wholly or in part by money subscribed to the Community Fund.

Methodists Move Toward Merger

AFTER seventy-five years of separation, brought on by the war between the states, northern and southern Methodists are finally nearing a merger intended to unite the 8,000,000 adherents to that faith in one general organization.

While differences in conscientious beliefs may be accepted as justifying a considerable number of religious organizations, divisions in any one denomination—based on sectional animosities—could scarcely fail to weaken the effectiveness of the group as a whole.

There would be wonderment, for instance, as to the possible need for a number of heavens, so as to avoid clashes between brethren who had been unable to dwell in unison while on earth.

Except as it may be regarded as choice of different routes to the same destination, the division of more than 55,000,000 church members in the United States into dozens of denominational groups is confusing to persons whose faith is not already substantially founded.

Imagine the potentialities of such a group, if united in thought and action, in promoting community, state and national betterment!

Accident-Prevention In Factories.

GREATER SAFETY in industrial employment, that has come about in recent years, encourages continuance of efforts along the same line, which accounts for the fact that two thousand representatives of Ohio industries are expected to gather in Columbus next Tuesday to Thursday to attend the ninth annual All-Ohio Safety Congress and Exhibit.

It is gratifying to recall that Mansfield was among the early cities to take up accident-prevention in factories, both by the elimination of hazards and by campaigns of education intended to acquaint workers with common causes of accidents and to make them more careful of the safety of themselves and others.

Experience has proved the value of safety appliances and of education in accident-prevention—with marked decrease in injuries or fatalities among industrial workers.

Menaced Democracy.

AMERICANS are naturally interested in the fortunes of Czechoslovakia, not only because there are so many sons and daughters of that country living here, but because its government is, in form and spirit, more like ours than that of any other European country. A Czech living in Uzhorod-Hrad writes:

> "The citizens of Czechoslovakia revere the United States because the nation really is what it is today because the United States has made it so. Statues of President Wilson may be seen throughout the whole country, railway lines have been named after him, hotels bear his name."

It is an inspiring thing, to Americans, that so real a democracy exists in the heart of Europe, surrounded by despotisms. American sympathy naturally goes to the government at Prague, struggling to hold true to its ideals against a small rebellious minority under the thumb of German Fascism.

Savings Bank Life Insurance.

PERIODICALLY there is agitation for the issuance of life insurance by savings banks, where the man wanting a policy may go in, look over a list of contracts, make his selection and complete his purchase.

There is probably nothing against this system of issuing life insurance—if adequate legal safeguards for the protection of the buyer are erected. But it is inconceivable that the American people would have ever purchased $120,000,000,000 of life insurance protection, as they have, in "over the counter" buying.

Savings bank life insurance has been legal in Massachusetts for many years—yet the total is extremely small in comparison to that of the regular companies doing business in that state. It is the agency system, under which trained men call on prospective buyers, that is responsible for our being the best insured of all the world's peoples.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

AS IDLE MONEY piles up, men worry. Idle money spells depression. When money "works," there is trade. Or, better, put it the other way—when there is trade money works.

Too much idle money is a temptation—a temptation toward inflationary schemes. Thus the situation at the moment is not healthy.

Money will be "cheap" for a long time. The government has seen to this—in an effort to provide funds at reasonable rates for business and construction, and for its own borrowings. It has desterilized $1,400,000,000 in gold holdings and reduced required bank reserves by $750,000,000.

Thus much cash has been freed, and seeks investment. But where can banks invest? Government securities, yes. But short term government paper is down to such a low figure that smaller banks cannot afford to "fool" with it. Thus money from smaller interior banks has been flowing to New York. And the New York banks do not like this, for they not only have to try to make it earn its keep-safely—but must pay deposit insurance on it.

GETTING STARTED

The difficulty lies in getting the industrial machine restarted. Corporations have no need for additional money if their plants are not operating.

But the industrial machine will not restart if there is no purchasing power. There is little purchasing power among the people at large today. The worker even when he has a job, is beset with insecurity. The farmer is alarmed by falling commodity prices—in spite of all the efforts of the government to maintain prices.

Yet, somewnere, there is a key to the situation. Perhaps when prices are permitted "to seek their own level," we shall see a revival. But can the people survive, unaided, till then?

WILL THIS HELP?

William Owen, a Washington reader, writes that we have failed to maintain economic liberty, and argues for a planned economy.

Says Mr Owen:

"Don t you think that while liberal democracy has tried to give a large amount of independence to its members, and has aimed to maintain freedom of speech and other civil liberties, that it has failed to preserve economic liberty?

"When it first started, it was in a simple agricultural community, where the little industrial production was largely by handicraft methods; there, it may have succeeded in promoting economic liberty for the majority. But with the development of large scale machine production, the shrewder and stronger men rose to the top, organized and squeezed the little fellows out; until, today, we have lost our economic freedom, to become a nation of wage earners who are entirely dependent on a few capitalists.

"But, the failure of liberal democracy to maintain economic liberty and to provide a better standard of living for the masses has, also, resulted in destroying part of the civil liberties; for, as our economic oligarchy has grown in power, it has chiseled away these other rights until it not only controls the economic resources but most of the political power as well.

"Now, liberal democracy is based on the theory that the ultimate seat of authority is in the people. If this is so, they should not only control the government but the economic resources, too. For, what good does it do one to have a right to vote if he does not have a right to make a living?

"Private ownership should not be abolished, but should be controlled for the nation's benefit. The right to own the means of production should be respected, so long as it does not interfere with the equal rights of others to make a living, for the right to work is as sacred as the right to own property. As everybody lives by industry, industry is everybody's affair. We have plenty of raw materials, plenty of factories and plenty of men. Lack of democratic control over economic resources is our only difficulty.

"With 13,000,000 men out of work wishful waiting will not help for until we find a method of cutting the 'Gordian Knot' of false economic dogma, we will not go forward.

A Song For Mothers

—By HELEN LOOMIS LINHAM

I think all mothers have a special look
From others never having owned that name
It's a something found not in a book
Or learning, but an inner sort of flame;
It is a willingness to smile or cry,
A tenderness of eyes hard to explain;
And almost always there is courage high,
And always words to ease another's pain.

All mothers sweet I know remind me of
The Christ a little bit at least, for do
Not mothers give forever of their love
Crowned in a halo just for you and you?
I think all mothers have a special grace,
A something of the Christ upon their face.

PROGRESS

La Follettes Lose Evjue Support

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — When New Dealers heard that the Madison (Wis.) Capital Times was not going along with the La Follette secession from Rooseveltianism they gave three rousing cheers.

From the New Deal standpoint, their enthusiasm was amply justified.

The Capital Times is William T. Evjue's daily. Throughout the period of La Follette's Progressiveism (away back in the elder senator's day) Evjue's publication has been that especial brand of Progressiveism's particulah organ. Its bolt is a sensation of the first political order.

IF HE FIGHTS—

As for "Bill" Evjue, a Wisconsonian doubtless would be incredulous if told that this outstanding editor has not much of a national reputation—he is so well known within the boundaries of the Badger commonwealth.

It probably is a fact, however, that his fame has not spread far beyond. But it will, if La Follette-ism develops, with "Bill" fighting it.

Had the late Louis McHenry Howe broken with Franklin D. Roosevelt, it could have been no more amazing than Evjue's break with the sons of his old idol, Senator Robert M. La Follette the first.

STEWART RECALLS—

I met Evjue originally in Cleveland in 1924 during the convention which nominated the elder Wisconsin senator and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, presidentially and vice presidentially, on the Progressive ticket.

He is a forceful character, a dyed-in-the-wool liberal and a tip-top newspaperman.

He was one of the organizers of that convention, which was pretty much a Wisconsin affair, though the La Follette-Wheeler combination did score more than 4,000,000 popular votes, besides carrying Wisconsin itself.

AN ORIGINAL PROGRESSIVE

In the circumstances it was a creditable "third party" record and Evjue had a deal to do with registering it, at least in his own state.

He has served in the Wisconsin legislature, has been a presidential elector and was chairman of the committee at the gathering when the new Progressive line-up was born.

The essential consideration is that he has rated (and properly so) as about the most thoroughly-saturated La Follette Progressive in the United States, next to Father La Follette and his sons—and now he turns thumbs down on the latest La Follette "movement." That is to say, the Capital Times does—which is the same thing as Evjue himself.

DEPRECATES SPLIT

The Capital Times' position is that President Roosevelt has done more for American economic improvement than ever has been done before.

It deprecates a liberal split and blames the La Follettes for threatening one.

Its editorials have not been widely quoted yet, as have those from larger metropolitan dailies.

Yet the essence of the matter is that Madison, Wis., is a center of Progressive-ism, that it is vitally the seat of La Follette influence, and that "Bill" Evjue has been the La Follette Progressive-est editor in America.

Now he kicks over the traces.

* * *

NEW DEALERS PLEASED

Roosevelt New Dealers naturally are pleased.

"Young Phil" and "Young Bob" are off the Roosevelt "reservation."

The Rooseveltians are gratified to observe that Evjue does not follow them.

Evjue may be a petty recalcitrant—and yet maybe not so petty.

He will be publicized soon, and possibly with some effect.

It must create a mean situation in Wisconsin Progressive politics, anyway.

How About Bonus Babies?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MOTHER'S DAY tomorrow—with hardly a heart but's turning to the thought of some dear face.

A girl's face, perhaps, as flower-fresh and innocent as the downy head that lies in her arms. . . .

Or an aging face, wrinkled and gently wise, its eyes deep pools of peace. . . .

Or, perhaps, that face which only the aching heart may see down the long aisles of years . . . a secret shrine whose deathless love still heals our hurts and fears.

Mothers' Day! Mothers' Love—the gentlest yet the most potent power on earth. And yet, in these strange times, we're twisting even Motherhood from its old and simple plan . . . making birth seem more than just the job of a woman and a man . . . planning the "project" of Being Born on a par with raising pigs and corn!

"BONUS BABIES!"—there's a phrase! What a riot Grandma'd raise! "FEDERAL PAYMENT IF YOU HAVE A CHILD!" Is that program cockeyed wild? Or a way up out of ruts?

ARLENE WEBER votes—"IT'S NUTS!" Listen in: Storm or grin. Then say if you're mad as hops . . . or think this notion is the TOPS!

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"IF AND WHEN THIS GOVERNMENT HAS TO PAY ME TO HAVE A BABY, I'M GOING TO FIND A NEW PLACE TO LIVE. FOR IT WILL MEAN THAT PERSONAL PRIDE AND INITIATIVE HAVE COME TO THEIR END IN THESE UNITED STATES."

"The greatest things in life can't be bought or rewarded. One must want to do them for himself . . . and be willing to do them joyously, eagerly, at any cost. Motherhood is one of these things. Yes, Motherhood does come high these days. Young couples like my husband and me, who are living on almost nothing, know it. But it's worth it!

"People have had babies in this country before without government subsidies, or doctors, or hospitals. Get married! Have your babies! You'll get through it somehow, if you want to bad enough. We did. To the government we say—'GET OUT! THERE ARE STILL A FEW THINGS WE CAN DO ALONE!'"

Arlene Weber—24 years,
516 East 62nd St.,
Chicago, Ill.

There, to my mind, is as grand an exhibition of true American spunk and pride as ever went over the top in a front line trench . . . or starved at Valley Forge!

Yes, I know my approval will be censured. Plenty! Many will say that I'm denying poor parents and babies a chance. Many will quote the Mothers' Pensions and Baby Bonuses in Russia, Germany, Italy. But I can only say that there is more to Motherhood than the dry goods and grocery bills. And no Government can, or should, try to provide that thing which makes a REAL MOTHER, A REAL FATHER, A REAL HOME . . . Namely, COURAGE, SELF-RESPECT, FIGHTING FAITH.

My mother was a poor mother, as was practically every western pioneer. I was a poor mother when my turn came. BUT I WOULD AS SOON HAVE FED MY BABY POISON AS REARED IT ON A GOVERNMENT BONUS!

And so, whatever your opinion, Stranger, I give you—ARLENE WEBER, SPEAKING FOR THE YOUNG MOTHERS OF AMERICA . . . AND FOR THAT PROUD BUT INVISIBLE HOST WHO BEQUEATHED TO THEM THEIR INVINCIBLE SPIRITUAL HERITAGE OF PRIDE!

What One Man Thinks

—By DAVID GIBSON

Too many law suits are tried on the law rather than the law applied to the facts.

A publication succeeds or fails on its editorial policy—not its business management.

There are no doubt many happy memories on the part of those sittin' out on the poor house porches.

Much of the present day styles in women's apparel emphasize ugliness—about like the dominating discords in modern music and child-like draftsmanship in modern painting—a woman with a large mouth and turned-up nose is supposed to wear a turned-up hat brim to accentuate ugliness.

Liquor.

THERE are now about 500 million gallons of whisky in the bonded warehouses of the United States.

About 70 million gallons are being annually withdrawn from this stock for retail consumption.

Twenty million gallons is about the yearly importation from Great Britain in the way of Scotch and Irish whisky and including some gin.

At a conservative estimate, 40 million gallons is the present annual bootleg production and upon which no federal tax is paid.

This last estimate is by the government and is based upon the normal annual consumption of whisky before prohibition, plus the increase in population.

Thus, the total annual consumption of whisky in the United States is now about 130 million gallons.

But, the past five years show a decline in withdrawals—beer and wine consumption being on the increase—and which, so far as wine is concerned, is good news to the farmers and vintners of northeastern Ohio and along the Lake Erie district in New York state.

Legal distilleries are only working half time.

The contraband liquor distillers have not been disturbed much since the repeal of the 18th amendment; they have not cut the retail price of liquor very much and their processes not being as economical as the large legal distilleries, their profit just about represents the amount of the Federal tax, which is huge.

Where whisky is produced in a modern, legal distillery, by clock and thermometer and with scientific yeast, why, the manufacturing cost is only about 32 cents per gallon, including cooperage and storage for five years. Its cost to the consumer is represented by tax, wholesale and retail profit, and the greatest of these is tax.

Considering its low manufacturing cost, there is too much blended whisky—"cutting" is the term applied by bootleggers.

The average bottle of so-called whisky handed to the customer in the average store or set out on a bar, is only about 20 per cent real whisky, three to five years old, the remainder being young liquor, water and raw spirits.

The government does not care very much what happens to real whisky after the original tax has been paid upon it—did not care even before prohibition.

Previous to the 18th amendment, and when with a little knowledge and judgment a full quart of real whisky could be purchased at retail for $1.25, why, the bootleg liquor industry was never a very large factor in this country.

There were the Kentucky and Tennessee mountaineers, a relatively small group, who in reality were a product of bad roads—by crude processes of distilling, they found it easier to get a corn crop out in a jug than in a wagon.

The largest factor in contraband liquor, even in this same pre-prohibition period, were the people from southern Europe who emigrated to this country and formed colonies in large industrial cities. American commercial whisky was not powerful nor cheap enough for them. It was almost entirely a matter of consumption among their own groups and produced from low grade sugar or potatoes.

Blind Alley.

IN THE pre-Civil war era, the late Shep Groves, Xenia, O., drove a truck for John B. Gessner's circus. Shep was fired for driving an eight-horse band wagon up a blind alley at Rising Sun, Ind.

The late Ed Hubbard, of the Bellefontaine, O., Examiner, and grandson of Old Gessner, interviewed Shep some 30 years later, and in which Shep said:

"Them hosses that I druv up that blind alley that day are there yet—that is, their bones."

Now, isn't it true that American industry by taxation, regulation, restrictions and socialization is being driven up a Blind Alley—and to rot?

Akron, O., is the world's tire capital. The community grew from a diversity of industry, first upon bicycle tires and later in the development of the automobile industry.

During the Great War Akron enjoyed, and later suffered from a wild real estate boom—outskirt lots and downtown store leases were bought and sold on a curb market.

Mountaineers from Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee were imported into Akron to take the places of tire industry labor that had enlisted or been drafted into military service; and until beds were rented in eight-hour shifts, rents took most of the wages of workers.

Some of these mountaineers and their descendants are there yet—on relief, sitting out on the porches of dilapidated houses listening to the radio in the front room and with an ancient car at the curb.

For years, Akron has been a rich field for the labor agitator, and labor conditions among the more skilled tire workers have been particularly acute within the past year.

Just recently, one of the big tire industries of Akron opened at York, Pa., a tire plant where the rubber and cotton fabric is put into a huge machine at one end and it comes out the other in the form of a finished tire, wrapped in paper, ready for the market and hardly a man in sight—much on the order of a strip steel mill.

Nobody but the stockholders will get the benefit of the immediate economy of this labor-saving device. In this and other industries with a policy to full automatic machinery, labor will be deprived in wages of the power to purchase the product and by unemployment—another Blind Alley!

If the heads of this and other industries do not see this now, why, they will feel it later on.

The general business interests of Akron see in this automatic tire plant at York, Pa., a Ghost Town and are publicly blaming it in town meetings to the general attitude of labor.

But what is back of the attitude of labor?

At last accounts, the tire industry of Akron was paying more than $24 in taxes for every $100 in payrolls.

Pennsylvania, where this new tire plant is located, is much more favorable to any industry in the matter of taxation than Ohio.

Taxation is the figurative Shep Groves that has driven the eight-horse-band-wagon tire industry of Akron up a blind alley and to leave nothing but bones.
